Liberals organize

By VINCENT DURANT

Local Liberals are wasting no time gearing up for the next provincial election; an election in which they are confident they can unseat the Tories in Hastings-Peterborough.

"We've got the goose on the run", is the way Simon Courneya, former president of the Hungerford Township Liberal Association, described the political climate during a meeting held in Stoco last Wednesday night to set up a common executive for three local townships.

The townships, Tweed, Hungerford and Elziver-Grimsthorpe, will be represented by a joint executive whose duty it will be to organize the Liberal party's campaign efforts in future federal and provincial elections.

Formerly the area was covered by two associations, one based in Hungerford and headed by Simon Courneya, and the other in Elziver-Grimsthorpe, was headed by Ted Courneya.

However, as president of the Hastings-Peterborough Liberal Association, Helen Carruthers, pointed out at last Wednesday meeting, the need is present to have an executive to cover the townships of Tweed, Elziver-Grimsthorpe and Hungerford as one unit.

Speaking of the requirement for a grass-roots campaign if the Liberals are ever to win the riding, Mrs. Carruthers pointed out that approximately 10 such local executives will be set up within the Hastings-Peterborough riding.

"The solution...is a local organization," she told the 55 people who turned out for the meeting, held in St. Edmund's Church Hall in Stoco.

She said that she saw no reason why they could not do as the Conservatives have done in past elections, that is "get into all of the corners", of the riding.

The meeting, which was also attended by Charles Bates, a director of the Liberal Party in Ontario, elected the following people to the executive for the tri-township zone: president - Hugh McNulty; vice-president (Elziver-Grimsthorpe) - Ron Vastokas; director (Elziver-Grimsthorpe) - Rose LaJoie; vice-president (Tweed) - Yvonne Whalen; director (Tweed) - Gerald Gaffney; vice-president (Hungerford) - John Genore; director (Hungerford) - Larry Kearns.

Past-presidents Ted Courneya and Simon Courneya will also sit on the newly-formed executive.

Man charged

Constabler Bill Reid of the Madoc Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police has charged James K. Simmons, 45, R.R. 2, Belleville with careless driving and dangerous driving following a bicycle-van accident which took the life of a nine year old Madoc boy.

The accident, which occurred last Monday afternoon on highway 62, just south of Madoc, resulted in the death of Stephen Schultz-Nielsen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Schultz-Nielsen. Mr. Simmons is to appear in provincial court at Madoc on Tuesday, July 12 on the two charges.

Fall election predicted

"There isn't any doubt in my mind that we can win this riding federally."

These words, spoken by Charles Bates, a director of the Liberal Party in Ontario, served as a rallying cry to the 55 party faithful gathered in Stoco last Wednesday evening to elect an executive to guide future campaigns for the Liberals in the townships of Tweed, Hungerford and Elziver-Grimsthorpe.

Mr. Bates went on to predict that there would be a federal election "within one year", and called upon those present to get out and help round up support for the party.

In talking of the provincial election recently held in Ontario, an election which saw the Liberals retake the official opposition spot in Queen's Park from the New Democrats, Mr. Bates said that the party missed first place because, "we didn't attract high-calibre candidates". This was in reference to the dearth of candidates in the metro Toronto area prior to the election being called.

However, he pointed out, the next time around the party "won't have the (problems) getting candidates."

On the subject of the narrow defeat of Liberal candidate Dave Hobson, Mr. Bates said: "If we had the election today, we all are aware that Dave would win it."

In talking of what he considered poor press coverage of the Liberal campaign for the June 9 election, he said that he felt "the press...realize they made a mistake."

The nine-member executive appointed at last Wednesday's meeting will co-ordinate future federal as well as provincial campaigns in its four townships, the meeting was told.

Fastball in Madoc

By VINCENT DURANT

In what is hoped will be the rebirth of men's senior fastball in the Madoc area, twelve teams will take part in a weekend tournament as part of the Kinsmen's Summerfest this coming Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

From the first call of "play ball" this Friday evening at 7 p.m. until the final winner is declared sometime Sunday evening, the event promises to be the biggest sporting event of the year in Madoc.

Teams entered in the tournament will be coming from, Belleville, Peterborough, Trenton, Picton, Campbellford, Fenlon Falls, Camden East, Cobourg and Bancroft.

The local entry will be an all-star juvenile and senior team made up of several top ball players from the area, including Steve Johnson, Joe Brooks, Harley Willemssen, Reg Peters, Brian Armstrong and many of the former great ball players from the days when Madoc had fastball.

George Ferguson of the Toronto Maple Leafs will be playing for the Trenton team entered in the competition.

Johnnie Burnside will be catching and Larry Griffin pitching for the Devolin Motors, Belleville, entry in the tournament. Both of these Madoc natives are well known to area residents.

On the Howard and Robert Printing, Belleville, team, George Atkinson will be catching and Daryl Kramp pitching.

The tournament will be played at the ball field in Madoc, and will get underway at 7 p.m. on Friday evening, with games played every one and one-half hours. Saturday's play will get started at nine in the morning, as will Sunday's action.

Prize money in the tournament will be $500 to the grand champion team and $200 to the runner-up team.

Show planned

A puppet show will take place at the Madoc Memorial Library next Monday afternoon. The show will get underway at 2:30 p.m.

Board consider funding

Science Fair

The Hastings County Board of Education will consider putting up $900 to encourage and support participation in district and Canadian Science Fairs for 1978.

At its regular monthly meeting, held in Belleville the evening of June 27, the Board carried a motion by Tom Burnside that they include for consideration in their 1978 budget the appropriation to aid participation in the fairs by Hastings students.

Guests at the meeting were Jan Graham and Mark MacLeod, two county students who represented the local district Science Fairs at the Canada-Wide Science Fair in British Columbia.

They gave brief outlines of their projects and the benefits which they felt they had received from participation in Science Fairs.

Jan, who is from Madoc and a student at Centre Hastings Secondary School, took the following awards at the Canada-Wide Science Fair: silver medal, senior engineering; Chemical Institute of Canada - first prize of $100; Consumer and Corporate Affairs Department patent medal; and the Rockwell International trip to California for one of the top six exhibits.

Mark, who is a student at North Hastings Secondary School, won an honorable mention in junior engineering at the Canada-Wide Fair.

Car count ordered

Ontario Transportation and Communication Minister James Snow has ordered another study to determine whether the intersection of highway seven and 62, just north of Madoc, should be the sight of traffic lights.

The intersection, which becomes quite busy during the tourist season, has been the scene of several accidents in recent years.

The study ordered by the minister will involve counting cars to determine whether the volume of vehicular traffic warrants the installation of the lights. A similar count last year failed to convince the authorities that lights were required.

The recent announcement by the minister comes after persistent lobbying by the Hastings County Council.

Letters to the editor

Reply received on lake pollution

March 23, 1977

Mr. Vers McMurray, Manager
Highlands of Hastings Tourist Region.

Dear Mr. McMurray:

In response to your letter of March 14, concerning mercury pollution of Crowe, Moira and Stoco lakes, I am pleased to provide you with information which I hope will alleviate your concerns over the effect of using the water from these lakes.

Since about 1969, when the problem of mercury contamination first became evident, our laboratory has analyzed thousands of samples, including lake and river sediments, water and fish flesh for mercury. It was discovered that there was great difficulty in detecting any mercury in water even downstream of known sources of mercury discharges. This remained a puzzle until research efforts determined the path through which mercury accumulates in fish flesh. The mercury which exists in lake or river sediments, either as a result of a waste discharge or as a natural occurrence, is present in the form of metallic mercury which is insoluble in water. Through Biological processes occurring within the lake or river sediments, this metallic mercury is converted into methyl-mercury. In this form, it moves up the aquatic food chains from one type of organism to another until it eventually reaches certain fish species which accumulate and store the mercury in muscle tissue.

We are, therefore, confident that there is no danger from mercury toxicity from drinking the waters of the affected lakes. Similarly, there would be no danger from using any dairy products or the meat of cattle who have been drinking these waters.

There is, however, a danger from eating fish where mercury levels have been concentrated to above acceptable levels. The risk to humans depends not only on the amount of mercury present but also on how much is eaten and over what period of time. This is reflected in the press release. We do not know of any deaths or illness which have been attributed to mercury poisoning in the area. We have, however, no way of telling how many or if any people have been exposed to harmful levels. Thus, we felt it necessary to warn the public.

Yours sincerely

"George A. Kerr"

Reader questions logic on liquor store

To The Editor Of The Madoc Review:

In your paper dated June 22 I read an article to the effect that a new Liquor Store was to be built in Madoc. The property of Mr. K. Kincaid situated on Elgin Street in Madoc was suggested as one of the locations being looked at. The notice suggested that this was a convenient and central location, which I cannot deny.

However, erecting a Liquor Store in close proximity to the Secondary School and Elementary School certainly does not seem to me to be a good location.

My second point is that this area is constantly congested as anyone who tries to support the merchants in Madoc would know.

I fail to understand why a village that cannot support a COPE project and only has one major food outlet needs a larger Liquor Store.

Reeve recounts discussion on issue

Dear Sir:

Having been involved with the Repository Project at Mount Moriah, I feel a lot has been learned, pro and con.

There is a feeling that there are two sides, one for and one against. For some people this is what they want people to think.

I had an experience Saturday morning when I went to get into my truck. Across the street another gentleman was getting into his truck and instead of good morning he yelled, "so you think C.O.R.P. is going to overrun the whole area."

I said, "With a remark like that you must have something bothering you. What else would you like to say?" He reminded me that I had said something at County Council. I told him, anything that I said was not new to him or anyone else I had discussed the Project with. I reminded him that I had supplied the people with all the facts I had from A.E.C.L., and they (C.O.R.P.) were only taking the negative side. Previously, he told me they had that material 5 years ago. Having this material so far in advance and not saying anything made me wonder what some people knew and how long they had known it.

As the conversation developed, he said it wasn't C.O.R.P.'s responsibility to inform the people about the positive aspects and the precautions that were being taken by A.E.C.L. Then he remarked "the Russians knew all about what we were trying to tell." The majority of the C.O.R.P. people that I worked with were not inclined to approach the subject as the chap who chose to greet me the way he did Saturday morning.

I do not expect everyone to think and desire everything that I am connected with. The democratic process is being practiced in every segment of society that I have anything to do with.

I have endeavoured to get all the information, not just the ones that C.O.R.P. are producing. If this is the wrong way to decide on an issue, or any issue, then democracy is not desired. To be told that we know how we got things done in other places where we have lived and are going to get what we want here or wherever I am living is a "caution" sign to me.

First in a seriesEducation and your child

A special committee set up by the Hastings County Board of Education to inquire into, report upon and make recommendations regarding the various ways in which pupils who are emotionally or socially maladjusted may best be served in the interests of their general, social and educational development, has recommended that social training skills be part of the training of all teachers.

The committee, given approval for its work in September of 1975, consisted of eleven teachers, trustees, and others connected with the Hastings County Board of Education. Also represented on the committee were the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation and the Federation of Women Teachers.

Robert Henderson, principal of Centre Hastings Secondary School, was among the 11 members of the committee.

The committee made its findings and recommendations known to the Board of Education at the Board's meeting held in Belleville on June 27.

One of the findings of the report was that the incidence of emotional and social problems among the students in Hastings County amounted to approximately four per cent of the student population. This is, according to the report, low in consideration of many other reports from other school areas. Extrapolated over the student body in Hastings County, the four per cent would indicate that there are approximately 900 students who require special attention in Hastings County's school system.

Among the characteristics which the committee felt indicated an emotional or social maladjustment in a student were the following: an inability to learn that cannot be explained by intellectual, sensory, or health factors; an inability to maintain satisfactory interpersonal relationships; having phobias and/or compulsions; aggression and hostility towards teachers, playmates or parents; and withdrawal into daydream, fantasy and isolation from peers.

In all, the report lists eight characteristics, any one of which the committee felt would indicate an emotional or social maladjustment in the student.

Following their identification of the problem and the indication of the extent of the problem, the committee's report goes on to give several recommendations, which it says would help alleviate the problem of the maladjusted student.

The four main recommendations set out in the report are:

1. That social training be an integral part of the educational experience of all students in the primary years, and that it will be given the highest priority in classes or programs offered to socially or emotionally troubled children;
2. That social training skills be part of the training of all teachers and that in Hastings County these skills be given a high priority in (a) selection of teachers, and (b) in Professional Development programs for teachers;
3. That encouragement be given to teachers in Hastings County to develop (in cooperation with the Learning Outcomes coordinators) social training programs using the Learning Outcomes approach;
4. That the Hastings County media centre be encouraged to continue its efforts in evaluating and gathering social training materials; that they provide a catalogue of such materials and make it and the material available to teachers.

[Next week we will continue our look at the report of special committee on emotionally disturbed and socially maladjusted students.]

June 28, Centre Hastings Secondary School teachers participated in a discussion on the problems of students appointed by the court and Social and Family Services to CHSS through group homes in this area.

Included in the discussion were Larry MacDonald, acting director of Children and Family Services for Hastings County; Nancy Sage and Don Flanders, social workers; Henry Dobeich, probation officer; the Honorable Judge Walmsley, Family Court Judge; Mrs. Rose Budynski and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Book, group home parents; Alan Patton, attendance officer for the Hastings County Board of Education; William Hockley, Trustee; and Dave Smith from the Hastings County Board of Education.

Judge Walmsley outlined changes in the laws dealing with juveniles and noted that CHSS receives the largest percentage of court-appointed cases in Hastings County.

The discussion centered on the special needs of court-appointed cases, the necessity for information on these, additional costs required for adequate programmes, and teacher training to deal with the special needs of these students.

One noteworthy method of helping is through the Alternate Learning Program (ALP) which was initiated a year ago at CHSS under the direction of the vice-principal Robert Bateman, and administered by Alan Armstrong, Elmer Buchanan and Doug Miles. It helps regular students who have difficulty adjusting to the secondary school environment.

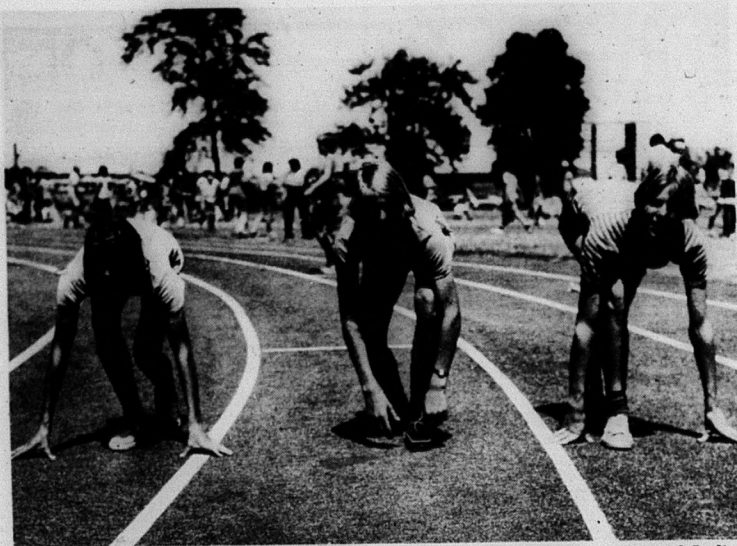

Other valuable areas of this year's professional development day were the "Discipline and Attendance" workshop; a "Learning Outcomes" discussion conducted by the principal, Robert Henderson, and Guidance Department Head, Garry Allin; "Implications of a Changing System", conducted by superintendent Ernie Ship-ton; and a seminar on rewarding students' efforts to achieve within the classroom, led by Mike Maloney, a member of the Associated School Group's Support Team.

Girls do well in track meet

Three sisters from the Madoc area did very well at a recent track and field meet held at the Sir James Whitney School in Belleville.

Petra, Lydia and Deborah Veerman dominated the track and field activities which saw students from more than 60 public schools in the Quinte area take part in the competition.

Thirteen-year-old Petra finished first in the 800 metre run, high jump and shotput. Lydia, who is 12 years old and also a student at Madoc Public School, finished first in the 400 metre run, the 200 metre run and mile. Their sister, Deborah 11, won the 800, 400 and 200 metre dashes.

Deborah is a student at Madoc Township School.

Courses gain popularity

Continuing education courses in agriculture have mushroomed in Eastern Ontario. The number of students enrolled at courses sponsored or conducted by the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology has risen from 200 in 1975 to more than a thousand this year.

To keep pace with the demand for short courses in agriculture, the College has appointed John Gardiner Head of the Section for Continuing Education.

A lecturer and researcher in soils and land-use at the College, Gardiner says the Section for Continuing Education was created because of the large number of local requests for agricultural courses.

Gardiner's first involvement with continuing education came two years ago when he co-ordinated the Novice Farmer programs. He notes there has been an increasing demand by farmers and non-farmers for specialty courses since then.

Specialty courses include sheep production, beekeeping, meat cutting and horse management. As well, the Section for Continuing Education handles Canada Manpower Courses and a Farm Business management course for young farmers.

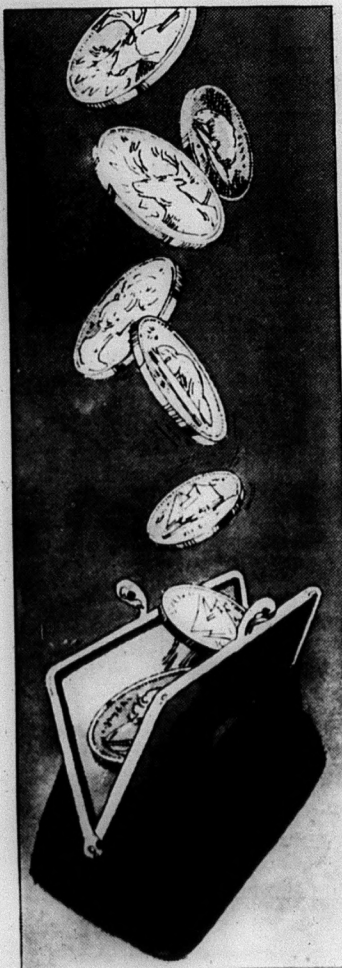

Gardiner says his Section is willing to set up a course anywhere in Eastern Ontario as a demand exists. Previously courses were offered at Ottawa, Kingston, Avonmore and Cornwall. More than fifty instructors will be recruited from the ranks of farmers, agricultural industry personnel, and College staff, Gardiner says.

Born in Morewood, Dundas County, Gardiner has a Master of Science in agriculture. Any group wanting to start on an agricultural course should contact John Gardiner at Kemptville College.

Save electricity, save money.

There are two ways saving electricity can save money.

First, the obvious one. The less you use, the less you have to pay for. And today, electricity is simply too valuable to waste.

Second, something not so obvious. Ontario uses more and more power every year. This means an ever increasing investment in plant and equipment...and their cost is rising rapidly. The cost of fuels is also increasing rapidly. These costs inevitably show up in the price you pay for electricity.

You can help to slow down the growing demand by using electricity wisely. Don't waste it.

Conserve energy.
The future depends on it.

A most unusual weekend!!

Underneath it all is Marmora's Jim Cuddy, who took part in a male beauty contest held as part of the Marmora Homecoming Week. He came in second runner-up.

One of the more unusual special events held in the area over the weekend was the frog racing contest at Belmont Lake

Saturday afternoon. Above, John MacIntyre urges on his entry to victory.

The four-legged entrants in the Belmont Lake frog racing contests ranged in size as much as their two-legged owners. Over 40 frogs competed in four classes, with proceeds to go to the Belmont Lake regatta this summer.

If determination could win races, this entrant in Marmora's wagon pulling contest would be an easy winner.

Ingenuity In Home Decor

SHEDDING LIGHT ON WINDOWS

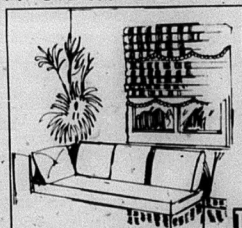

The window is a place where you can save energy and also open up new vistas in home decor. There are three basic styles to keep in mind when setting up windows for good lighting and privacy, according to home furnishings experts at Montgomery Ward.

The casual look is quite popular today. One good choice is open weave draperies, such as simple draw draperies, usually of a nubby textured fabric. These draperies, in combination with window shades, provide the ultimate in flexibility, privacy, energy conservation, fashion and color. They can be purchased either ready-made or made to special lengths and widths.

Other casual looks include matchstick or burnished bamboo roll up shades fitted inside the window frame. The very popular woven wood Roman shades also give texture and flexibility to your window treatment.

Then there's the mini-blind, a one-inch version of venetian blinds, which comes in a wide choice of colors. The blinds are quite versatile because they offer total control of the amount of light allowed through the window and they are easy to install.

A second popular look in window treatments is the innovative style. Balloon shades, quilted draperies, vertical blinds, Roman shades, and sliding flat drapery panels offer both a luxurious look and lots of control of outside light sources. Vertical blinds are quite popular today. They are 3-inch wide blinds that extend from the top to the bottom of the window, instead of stretching across the window. They can be pivoted to allow as much light (or to create as much privacy) as you desire.

A third style, the traditional approach, includes more conservative draperies and decorative valances. Sheer curtains under the draperies increase flexibility and help control heat gain or loss. For increased energy control, lined or foam backed draperies can be used. By keeping these ideas in mind, you may be shedding new light on energy conservation and imaginative decorating.

FACTS & FIGURES

The largest dish commonly eaten is a main dish prepared for nomadic Arab feasts. It consists of eggs stuffed into fish, which are stuffed into chickens, which are stuffed into a roasted sheep, and the sheep finally stuffed into a whole camel.

The fastest train in the world is the Japanese National Railroad's Kikari run between Kyoto and Nagoya. The Kikari makes the 83-mile trip in only 47 minutes, for an average speed of 106.5 miles per hour.

Madoc Review

Not everyone was interested in tripping a light fantastic during the Kiwanis Street

Dance held in Madoc last Saturday evening. These youngsters were just as happy to sit near the bandstand and enjoy a chance to stay up late.

Marmora man seeks to harness the sun

By VINCENT DURANT

MARMORA - What has Clarence Shannon got in common with Joseph Priestley and Antoine Lavoisier, the eighteenth Century scientists who unlocked the secrets of the element oxygen?

Well, just as Priestley and Lavoisier found that the sun's limitless power could be harnessed through the use of a giant magnifying glass so as to heat mercury oxide to a high enough temperature to release the oxygen gas it contains, so also has Mr. Shannon of Bursthall Street found that he can harness the sun's rays to his own use.

"I've got about half of the mirrors on now, and it's getting pretty hot", was the way he described the present state of completedness of his backyard project.

"I just dreamed it up" was his reply when questioned as to the instigation behind his plan to install 260 six inch square mirrors on a platform which could be aimed at the sun as it crosses the sky.

The mirrors can each be adjusted so as to focus the sun's rays at a point approximately 12 feet in front of them.

It's at that point, where the rays are focused by the mirrors, that things get "pretty hot", he said. Just how hot the focal point will be when all of the mirrors are in place - only about 40 per cent are installed now - Mr. Shannon is not sure.

But with less than half of the mirrors in place the 'solar furnace' will ignite paper in a couple of seconds and burn through solid wood held at the focal point for a minute or so.

MAY RUN TURBINE

"I'm just experimenting," said Mr. Shannon, "to heat water, and I don't know if its going to be hot enough to run a turbine or not. But I'm working that way."

"Any time the sun is shining is good. It doesn't matter if it (the sun) is hot or cool, as long as the sun is out", he said.

Of the method he may choose to convert the sun's warmth into a usable energy form, Mr. Shannon said he was interested in "seeing how high a temperature I can reach, and whether I can run a turbine to generate electricity for auxiliary power as well as to heat water for winter heating."

To follow the sun as it courses its way across the sky, Mr. Shannon has a system

How lucky can you get?

Stan and Jean Asselstine are shown above with their lucky ticket, number 042, with which they won an expenses-paid trip for two to Mexico in a drawing held as part of the Kiwanis Club's Street Dance in Madoc last Saturday night. For Stan and Jean this marks the second time within eight months that they have won a trip offered by the Kiwanians. The first time was last fall when they won a trip for two to Acapulco. The Asselstine's plan to take the money, $1,200, rather than the trip this time. Now, if only we could learn their secret, what with Loto Canada's draw coming up....

of ropes which can adjust the elevation as well as horizontal movement of the mirror board. The whole board is mounted on the end of a truck axle which is imbedded in six feet of concrete.

Should the program prove feasible once the remaining mirrors are installed, he envisages a time when the movement of the mirrors in tracking the sun may become automated.

"It could be operated by electrical power...a small motor with an electric clock mechanism," would be used to give the optimum collection of the sun's rays, he said.

So, just as Priestley, Laboisier, and a myriad of other experimenters before and Child dies in accident

The community sympathizes with Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Summers and family on the unfortunate loss of their infant daughter on Thursday, July 14th.

Eleven-month-old Tanya Marie Summers apparently choked to death on an apple at her home near Queensboro early in the afternoon.

The infant had been placed in her crib at about one o'clock by an uncle, Wayne Prevost, 14, who was babysitting at the time. When he checked in on her at 1:45 he found her choking on an apple. All attempts to dislodge the object failed, so he took the child by bicycle to a neighbour, who applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation but was unsuccessful in reviving the child.

Following a call for an ambulance, the girl was pronounced dead by Dr. George Adam, who met the ambulance enroute to hospital.

Besides her parents, the infant is survived by a brother and a sister and three grandparents, as well as several aunts and uncles.

Association plans sidewalk sale

At the last meeting of the Madoc Businessmen's Association, held in the Madoc Hotel on June 15, plans were made for a sidewalk sale, to take place this Friday and Saturday. The theme of the sale will be 'country style' it was decided at the meeting.

Also at the last meeting, a gift was presented to Ken West, who recently retired from the clothing business in Madoc.

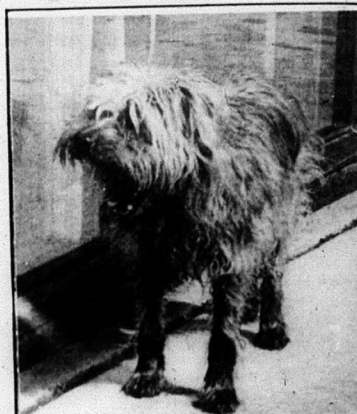

The next meeting of the Association, to which the Ontario Chamber of Commerce has been invited to send representatives, is being held today at the hotel.

Column on antiques planned

Beginning next week, the Madoc Review and the Marmora Herald will feature a weekly article on antiques.

Each week a different facet of antique collecting will be discussed and readers will be invited to send in questions that they may have concerning antiques. Every effort will be made to answer all questions.

An attempt will be made to identify an item as to approximate age, maker and country of origin. No attempt will be made to evaluate the items, as prices vary too much in different sections of the country.

Dog days had more than this little fellow yawning in the heat, as temperatures in the area soared into the 90's during most of the past week.

Family History completed

Wilfred Humphries of Regina, Saskatchewan, has just completed a history of the family of his grandparents, Alexander and Isabella Humphries, who had settled in Elzevir Township near here around 1865. There were seven sons and two daughters in the family.

A son, James, became a haverdasher in Bracebridge, Ontario and a daughter, Jane, became Mrs. Finlay Houston of Tweed. Mrs. Charles Porritt is a granddaughter. John, another son, was a carriage maker in Sarnia, Ontario. Emma went west with her brother, Alexander, and settled at Ossa in the Northwest Territories. They were accompanied by William, who was a son of William Humphries, a wagon-maker of Cloyne.

Joe Humphries was from Johnston's Corners. The schoolhouse at the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area came from Johnston's Corners in Elzevir Township, and had been attended by Alexander Humphries in 1868 or '69. Wilfred Humphries is presenting a picture of Alexander Humphries to the museum, plus a copy of the family history.

Wilfred Humphries also has in his possession a bill of sale from Vandusen and Houston Lumber Company of Tweed, dated 1887, which shows that his father purchased two 1 1/2-inch doors for $1.25 each, when he was building a house in the village there. The house has since been torn down.

Mr. Humphries is giving a copy of the family history to each of his 100 cousins all across Canada, including the Yukon Territory, and is also giving a copy to the local library in the community where each of these cousins live. He has left a copy, for reference purposes, at the office of the Madoc Review for the local library.

Mr. Humphries was visiting in the Madoc and Tweed area during the past week before returning to Regina. He has spent 13 years compiling the family history.

Woman hospitalized

An accident on highway 62 nine miles north of Madoc on Monday, July 11, sent a Belleville woman to hospital with possible neck and head injuries.

Cars driven by Andrea Brown, 21, of Belleville and Scott Nickle of Madoc collided while both were travelling north on highway 62, according to the Ontario Provincial Police.

Jennifer Brown, an occupant in the car driven by her sister Andrea, was taken to Belleville General Hospital for examination of possible neck and head injuries, police said.

The Nickle vehicle received approximately $200 damage in the mishap, while the Brown car was damaged beyond repair.

CORP holds beef draw

Bernice Cassidy of Queensboro drew the winning ticket in the raffle for a quarter of beef, organized by the Citizens Opposing Radioactive Pollution [CORP]. The draw, which took place in the Horseshoe Lounge of the Madoc Hotel on Saturday night was won by Jack Murphy of Belleville. Holding the box containing the tickets in the above photo is Ron Vastokas, president of CORP.

Businesses urged to hire a student

Operators of businesses and farms may be eligible for a grant of one dollar per hour toward the wages of additional youth employees this summer.

The Ontario Youth Secretariat, through a programme called the Ontario Youth Employment Programme (O.Y.E.P.), may provide assistance toward the payment of wages where a new job has been created by an employer for an unemployed youth. The provincial grant of one dollar per hour is a special sixteen week programme which began May 30 and ends September 16.

The dollar an hour rebate is only available to those employers who can offer jobs in addition to those performed by regular employees, both full-time and part-time, as well as seasonal workers. Any new jobs must not result in dismissals, lay-offs or reductions in normal staff work hours. Jobs otherwise unavailable as employment opportunities can now become feasible positions under the financial assistance offered employers by O.Y.E.P.

Employers interested in applying for the rebate must be actively engaged in business for one year prior to the commencement of the programme. No federal, provincial or municipal government agencies are eligible applicants. In addition, employers, except farmers, become ineligible where the wage or salary of the job for which the grant is sought does not require the employer to pay the minimum wage.

Also ineligible are employers seeking a grant for a job where the wage or salary for that job is already subsidized by government grant.

Eligible employers are persons who are resident and eligible to work in Ontario and who at the time of the programme's commencement have had their fifteenth birthday but are not yet twenty-five years old and are not related to the employer (i.e. spouse, parent, child, brother or sister or any other relative who resides with the employer).

Persons interested in obtaining more information regarding this special program should call the Belleville Canada Manpower Centre at 962-8681 or the Belleville Canada Manpower Centre for students at 962-2586. The Madoc Canada Manpower Centre for students sub-office will also be open every Wednesday until July 27 at CHSS for local employers desiring additional information.

Many students in the Marmora-Madoc-Tweed area want to work but their chance to gain summer work experience depends heavily upon the job openings available to them in their own community.

The U.S. and Italy produce about half of the world's crop of peaches.

Open Letter to the Citizens of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties

Over the past ten months, certain citizens interested in the provision of health care, both from the providers' and consumers' standpoint, have been meeting as a Steering Committee at the instigation of the Ministry of Health to determine if our area would benefit from the creation of a District Health Council as has already occurred in many areas of Ontario.

As a result of our deliberations and discussions, it has been agreed that this concept should be presented to the people of Hastings & Prince Edward Counties to examine the benefits in terms of possible improvement in the expenditures of health dollars with increased input from citizens, consumers, and providers alike. The Steering Committee members are prepared to meet groups of interested citizens to discuss the implications of the formation of a District Health Council, and to receive any information or provide any information requested.

Any such requests, for information, or personnel of the Steering Committee to attend meetings, are welcome.

It is intended to call general meetings of interested persons in the Fall of 1977 to finalize the work of the Steering Committee, and to nominate, if so indicated, members of an eventual District Health Council for this area.

Farmers exempt from tax

TORONTO - The Ontario government will exempt bona fide Ontario farmers from the land speculation tax if they have farmed their land for ten years of more.

Agriculture and Food Minister Bill Newman explained that the ten-year period need not be consecutive. He also said the exemption applies to farmers who are occupying their land but are not farming it, so long as they did farm it for at least ten years in the past. For farmers who have farmed for less than ten years, the government will permit a partial exemption.

These changes will be made by amendment to The Land Speculation Tax Act during this session of the Legislature and will be retroactive to April 20, 1977.

Mr. Newman said the changes were being made particularly to protect the retiring farmer who may live on his land without farming it for a few years before actually selling it.

He said, "It makes no sense to penalize a bona fide farmer just because he wishes to ease the transition period of his retirement by remaining for a time on the land that has been his home for many years."

The changes to be made in the land speculation tax supercede the changes announced in the provincial budget last April.

Looking back

81 YEARS AGO — 1896

Madoc is going to be quiet on Dominion Day, but Tweed and Marmora are looking forward to a great day. Posters are up through all the country round and no doubt many from Madoc will be at both villages.

Mr. A.F. Wood lately erected a windmill on his premises for the purpose of watering his lawn and garden. The work was done by the Hart Bros., and the mill looks very pretty indeed.

At the Madoc Cheese Board meeting this week 915 Cheese were boarded. The leading price was 7-1/16c. Ruling price, 7c. The usual buyers were present, and all the cheese was sold.

On Monday afternoon, June 22nd, a barn belonging to Mr. Thos. Moore, of Queensboro, was totally destroyed by fire. The fire occurred while all the men were away and is supposed to have originated from a spark from the adjoining house which had been on fire during the forenoon. The building contained about 60 bushels of peas, 75 bushel of oats and 3 tons of hay. Mr. Wm. McIlroy lost a reaper and horse rake which he had stored in the barn. Mr. Moore's loss is about $600, but he has $400 insurance.

On the lighter side — a couple of humorous notes:

First, from the Mattawa Tribune:—"A young lady in town, who has been working hard at gardening this spring, was much surprised to find that most of the seed she had so carefully sown failed to produce a single leaf. Imagine her disgust when she discovered that the seeds she had planted and watered so assiduously were neither more nor less than a quantity of Carter's Little Liver Pills."

Secondly, "Seven cases are recorded in Britain, during the present century, where the bride has been married to the best man by the clergyman's mistake or the groom's stupidity."

27 YEARS AGO — 1950

Miss M.F. Mutton, of the King Edward School staff, Peterborough, and former teacher of Madoc Public School, will sail with a group of 40 Canadian teachers for the United Kingdom in the next few weeks. This group of teachers will teach in England for one year on an exchange basis.

Mrs. C.B. McCoy, who will be on the staff of Madoc Public School in September, was honoured by St. John's United Church Sunday School, Tweed, of which she was treasurer. She was recently presented with a motor rug. The choir of the church also presented her with a set of stainless steel kitchenware. She was a member of the choir for 18 years. Mrs. McCoy now resides in Madoc where she will be making her home.

The speaker at the Kiwanis weekly dinner on Friday, June 30th, was Kiwanian Jack Baker. Mr. and Mrs. Baker recently attended the Shrine Convention in California and Jack gave an interesting talk on their trip.

Roscoe B. Doughty, of Norwood, formerly of Eldorado, has obtained his Ph.D. at the University of Toronto, and has been awarded a fellowship by the University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doughty of Norwood. Mr. Doughty was graduated from Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, in 1940 with a B.A., and in 1941 joined the R.C.A.F. He became a pilot officer and was shot down over Germany and taken prisoner. Prisoner of war for 18 months, he was released at the end of the war and returned to Canada in 1945. He resumed his studies at that time and got his m.a. at Toronto.

The Sunday Schools of Madoc, Bannockburn, Queensboro, and Millbridge Anglican Churches held their annual picnic at Crystal Beach, Moira Lake, on Wednesday afternoon, July 5th, with over 200 in attendance. Dinner and supper were provided by the women of the parish, while the children participated in sports and swimming.

Report against provincial exams

A report released last week by Education Minister Thomas Wells recommends against the reintroduction of province-wide examinations in Ontario's school system as the sole means of promotion.

The 13-member work group, composed of mostly teachers was established by Mr. Wells last fall to consider evaluation and reporting methods. Their report stated that province-wide standardized testing should form only one part of a broader program of student evaluation.

The work group also recommended that the evaluation of student achievement primarily remain the responsibility of classroom teachers and that considerable effort should be made to improve the evaluation and testing skills of teachers. Mr. Wells said that some of the work group's recommendations can be implemented very soon, specifically that a bank of tests related to specific curriculum objectives be developed and made available to teachers to help them diagnose pupil strengths and weaknesses.

Stirling man charged

An R.R. #2 Stirling man has been charged on three counts following a single-vehicle crash in Madoc Township last Friday afternoon.

Charged with Section 83 of the Highway Traffic Act and Sections 233 and 238 of the Criminal Code was Russell Critch, 20, who was driving a 1969 Pontiac on County Road 23 when the mishap occurred.

According to the report, Mr. Critch was southbound at approximately 60 m.p.h. when he came to a 90-degree curve in the road. He ran off the roadway and went into the south ditch, where the car rolled over. Damages to the vehicle were estimated at $1,000 by investigating officer, Const. Al Borger of Madoc O.P.P. The driver was not injured in the incident.

Vanderwater Conservation Area

Whether you like wading in the flat-rock rapids, hiking through a nature trail or engaging in a sing-song around a campfire, Colonel Vanderwater Conservation Area offers something for everyone.

Vanderwater Park is 1.5 miles east of Thomasburg off Highway 37.

Vanderwater Conservation Area was named in honour of the late Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater, an ardent conservationist. The area was officially opened August 1, 1960.

It was largely through Colonel Vander-water's interest and initiative that the Moira River Conservation Authority was formed. He served as its first Chairman and was Secretary-Treasurer from 1948 - 1957.

The Moira River flows beside the park which comprises 630 acres of public use facilities and reforested sections. The park contains seven large picnic areas, three nature trails, sixty campsites, a beach, a natural spring and boat launches.

Open for winter-use the park has snowmobile and cross-country ski trails.

The snowmobile route follows the road through the park and in camp areas two and three for four miles. The trail is blazed with black arrows on orange markers.

Red arrows on white markers denote the cross-country ski trail which follows the shoreline through the picnic areas.

Camp Sagonaska, a 34 acre portion of the park has been leased by the Boy Scouts Association for year-round use.

The South American country of Brazil derives its name from the reddish tree the Spanish and Portuguese call brasil, and which we call Brazilwood.

Farm Safety Week

Farming is a physically hazardous occupation. The farmer operates complicated machinery, handles livestock and heavy supplies and potent chemicals. He is subjected to dust, heat, cold, rain, snow and sun.

Although basically a business man he must also be a mechanic, a trouble-shooter, a carpenter, and a handyman. In no other occupation is one person faced with such a variety of hazards. In order to reduce injuries the Canada Safety Council urges farmers to use personal protective equipment.

Other injuries have long used personal protective equipment to minimize worker injuries. Many farm injuries could be prevented or reduced in severity by the use of this equipment.

Hard hats, safety boots, heavy duty gloves, chemical or petroleum resistant gloves, respirators, dust masks, monogoggles, chipper goggles, welder's helmets and face shields are some of the items which farmers should consider as essential to their personal safety.

Personal protective equipment is meant to be used only when it is impossible or impracticable to eliminate a hazard. Wearing this equipment tends to prevent injury by the hazard remains a potential danger.

It is better to remove a hazard than to try to safeguard against it by means of special clothing or equipment.

UCW meets at church manse

The evening of July 5, fourteen United Church Women gathered at the manse in Queensboro. Also present were Mrs. Claude Blakely and Mrs. Clifford Blakely of Great Valley, New York. Mr. Creaser also joined with the group for part of the evening.

The June minutes and the treasurer's report were given. The June offering was $22.

A few important items of business were discussed and completed.

"The Changing Family" was the topic for the program, ably handled by Evelyn Boyle; followed by a Worship Service on loyalty. The hymns, "The Church's One Foundation", and "I would be true" were sung with Mrs. Creaser's accompaniment on the organ.

Luke 16:1-3 was read by Minnie Moorcroft and the meditation was by Helen Johnson.

The offering was dedicated by Mr. Creaser who also closed the service with a prayer.

For a few minutes of recreation a matching game was provided by Alma Moorcroft.

Boat racing washed out at Tweed

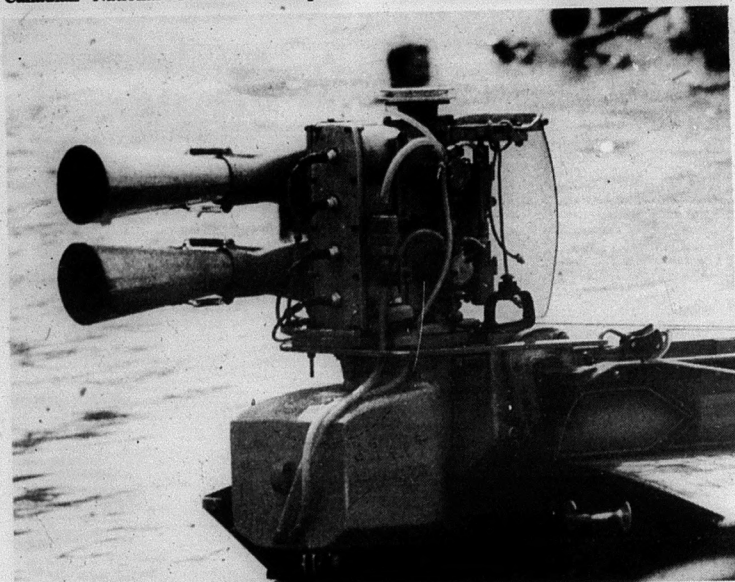

This was the scene Sunday afternoon at Trudeau Park at Tweed during the Canadian National Outboard championships, sanctioned by the Canadian Boating Federation. The two-day event was for stock and formula outboard hydroplanes.

The races were run in 12 categories, including those for juniors to age 14, through to the unlimited craft. Many local competitors raced during the two days.

Photos by Michael Labossiere

This older model Mercury engine was one of the most popular engines to be converted to racing. The majority of the boats in the lower classes use Mercury engines for the races.

Made in Germany and specially constructed for racing is this four-cylinder, horizontally opposed rotary valve Konig engine. It is valued by its owner at about $5,000.

Although much of Sunday's racing was cancelled by inclement weather, the sun did stay out long enough to produce a little pleasing scenery.

A cool dip in the lake ended the race for this entrant in one of Sunday's races. The weather proved to be an important factor in the races as choppy water and other safety hazards eventually resulted in the cancellation of much of Sunday's events.

Norwood plays host to cowboys

While the men wrestled steers, the girls were given the task of wrestling a goat to the ground.

The ever-popular horse drawing contest drew many local competitors.

Slow down and enjoy your vacation

Sombody said once that a vacation was two weeks that go by too fast and leave you too broke to go any place until next year.

That's about the way a lot of them work out.

There are still a couple of other things that ought to be added to that definition. A vacation is also a time when too many drivers try to go too far too fast.

A lot of them seem to figure that any time spent on the road is completely wasted.

They've just got to get to where they're going. They've got no time to look at the scenery, or to take an occasional break. Sometimes a driver will even try to gulp down a sandwich and a shake while he's whizzing down the highway at a 55 or 60 mph clip.

You'll stand a better chance of not tangling with a vacation driver if you can recognize him - and there are some tipoffs from the Ontario Safety League that'll help you spot him.

Watch for the driver who's pokey and hesitant. He may not be sure he's on the right road and he may be trying to spot a sign or a landmark. He may even be trying to read a map and drive at the same time. It's not unusual.

These signs of confusion show up frequently at intersections of main highways and in cities - good places to be especially alert for trouble to develop.

Keep your distance from this type of driver. Don't tailgate. Allow a maximum distance between your vehicle and his. If he makes a sudden decision and follows with a spur-of-the-second turn, you're likely to be involved in a rear-end if you're up there too close.

There are other things to look for that will help you identify the vacation driver.

Watch for cars with out-of-province licenses, or a car towing a trailer or a boat. A car with a loaded luggage rack is another clue.

What can you do to protect yourself? Stay back. Give him plenty of room. Be ready to brake.

Don't be too impatient. Give the hesitant driver just a second or two to get his bearings. Sometimes that's all it takes. Don't blast him with your horn. This might startle or anger him into a dangerous manoeuvre.

A puzzled driver may ask you for information at a coffee stop or even pop a question to you while you're both stopped at a light. Give him the best information you can and do it courteously.

A few words from you may straighten him out and put him in a better frame of mind. This is going to be good for his driving. That helps the other drivers on the road - and that includes you!

So many places to see

One of the most pleasurable summer outdoor activities in Ontario is camping. There are so many places to go and so much to see in our big and beautiful province that more and more people are thinking of outfitting themselves for a camping vacation. It need not take a sizeable expenditure since much of what you will take along is already in the kitchen and elsewhere around the house.

The major decision to make is whether everyone in the family wants to go camping. The best way to resolve that question is to borrow the essentials from a friend or rent equipment and camp out for a weekend before buying. Then, start with whatever basic equipment you can afford and add to it from year to year as family needs become more sophisticated.

The one essential is a Woods Bag and Canvas sleeping tent. Buy one large enough to accommodate the family and a friend or two. If that is all you can afford the first year, that is all you need to buy.

You can take along mattresses from home to be put on the sewn-in, water-proof floor; then use sheets, blankets, pillows and slippers from home. Cutlery, pots, pans and other cooking utensils from your kitchen can be taken along. When packed in a wooden box that has carrying handles, the cooking gear can be stored in a corner of the tent and easily brought out to the picnic table at your campsite when needed. Picnic jugs for water, milk and fruit juices can be used for holding vegetables on the way to the campgrounds. Paper plates and plastic disposable cups are economical and save in cleanup time. If your budget can be expanded a bit, a Coleman stove, cooler chest and lantern and Woods sleeping bags will make your vacation more comfortable and enjoyable.

Camping is a combination of the fun you have in the outdoors, the things you see and the invaluable benefits your children experience as they learn something new. The family in the campsite beside you may come from another part of Canada, from the United States or even from another part of the world. They will share stories about where they live and what interests they have. You may meet a pauper, a politician or a plutocrat; almost everyone likes to go camping.

Cooking meals out of doors is not a problem. Your menus can be as simple or elaborate as they are at home. It is wise to remember that appetites will be larger because of the energy expended in trying new activities in the outdoors.

The Ontario Safety League draws your attention to three things to bear in mind when camping this summer. In some parts of our province there is still a ban on open fires due to the forest-fire hazard. The answer of course, is a two-burner Coleman stove. If you are back-packing or canoe-tripping, Coleman has a new, single-burner, liquid-fuel stove that is only 2½ lbs. in weight. Most sporting goods stores can sell you a two-pint cylindrical fuel container that fits a packsack easily. The second thing is that in some provincial parks, bottles and cans are not permitted; save the plastic containers in which potato salad and cole slaw are sold for use in taking food stuffs to restricted campgrounds. The third thing to remember is to help keep our outdoor environment in its natural state by carrying out everything you carry in or make sure that your refuse is taken to a designated area.

Have a happy camping vacation.

Various factors cause drownings

Inexperience, overconfidence, carelessness, disregard for the weather, lack of responsibility and neglect in taking normal precautions are the general factors that cause the majority of drowning fatalities from pleasure boats.

The Ontario Safety League reports that during the 1976 recreational boating season there were 98 drownings from pleasure boats in the province. Almost 90 percent of those drowned were not wearing lifejackets, 53 percent were under 30 years-of-age, 44 percent were canoeists and 70 percent of the drownings were attributable to capsizing or swamping.

Many novice boaters feel that operating an outboard motorboat or a small cruiser is as easy as driving a car. They overlook the fact that pavement does not make waves that can cause tipping or swamping. Many ignore that fact that courtesy on our waterways is entirely different than courtesy on our roadways because more variables are involved.

It is evident that too many canoeists are attempting to venture out in situations for which they have little experience. Above any other type of pleasure boat operator, a canoeist must be thoroughly knowledgeable about his sport, take greater precautions and be constantly aware of changing weather conditions.

The League exhorts all boating and canoeing enthusiasts to take safety courses for the craft they will be operating this summer and reminds everyone to wear a lifejacket if there is any doubt about weather or water stability.

DOLLAR SENSE

Hang onto your car, it's cheaper each year

By John G. Sayers, CA

Most Canadian families are committed to the idea that they must own a car and indeed, for many, having fewer than two cars is unthinkable.

Yet few people keep careful track of the true cost of car ownership, perhaps because they don't want to know. But adopting a simple bookkeeping system will help you make such decisions as when to buy a new car, whether to buy a used car, and when to use public transportation.

Members of The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario answer your questions in Dollar Sense. Mr. Sayers is a partner with Dunwoody & Company, Toronto.

There is one important rule to remember when you are figuring out how much your car is costing -- you do not include the price you paid for it, but only the depreciation.

A typical car purchase might go this way. The purchase price including tax and licence is $5,000. The owner has paid $1,000 as a down payment, and repays the balance at $190 a month for 24 months.

Yet these payments are not calculated into the cost of operating the car. It is, rather, the loss in value, or depreciation, which is used in estimating operating costs.

In this example, the figure you should use for the first year is $1,500 or 30 per cent of the original purchase price.

Add in the cost of insurance, $280; gasoline for driving 12,500 miles, $400; lubrication, $100; and other expenses, $75; and you will find the car cost $2,130 or approximately 19 cents a mile in the first year.

If you had calculated the cost on the basis of the $1,000 down payment and the $2,280 paid in instalments, instead of on depreciation, the cost per mile would have been a horrendous 34.45 cents.

The picture improved the second year. Depreciation this year amounts to 30 per cent of $3,500 or $1,050. The other costs are constant except this time add in $30 for renewing your licence and a higher figure for other expenses as the car ages, perhaps $125. In the second year, costs of operating the car have slipped to 15.4 cents.

In the third year, depreciation is only $703.12. The other costs are constant except a higher figure for other expenses, perhaps $200. This brings down operating costs to 14.28 cents a mile.

If you had taken the bus to work instead of driving, you would have saved about $80 a year for gasoline for the 10-mile round trip but little else, assuming free parking was available at work. Not taking a car to work would cost you as much as $200 a year for bus fare in many cases.

It becomes obvious that the longer you own the car, and the more miles you drive it, the cheaper car ownership becomes. Of course, eventually you reach the point where the cost of repairs, both mechanical and body, becomes substantial, but they are hardly ever likely to reach the high cost of depreciation you paid in the first year or two of owning the car.

Investing down payment can pay non-owner

By Allan S. Rosenberg, CA

"Carries cheaper than rent" is a phrase we haven't seen very much lately in real estate advertisements.

Higher property costs and higher mortgage rates have combined to push up the cost of buying a home, while the cost of renting has advanced at a much slower pace, due to rent controls.

Members of The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario answer your questions in Dollar Sense. Mr. Rosenberg is a partner with Marmer Mandelbaum Landau and Rosenberg, Toronto.

If you are planning to buy a home, consequently, you should investigate the real costs of buying versus renting. And if you make a decision on economic grounds alone, you will often find that being a homeowner may not be much of a saving.

Let us consider, for example, a situation where John and Phyllis have been renting an apartment for $275 a month, and have decided to buy a place of their own. They have saved $5,000, find a small but comfortable home costing $40,000, and are able to finance it with a 9.5 per cent mortgage.

Monthly payments on the 20-year mortgage, including taxes, amount to $338, but it's a place of their own, and they think the extra $63 a month is well worth it.

Mind you, they now have to pay to heat their house and, with the rising cost of fuel, discover that this is costing $500 a year. Electricity costs another $30 a month, about twice what they were paying in their apartment.

Then there are insurance, water and sewer charges, and before they know it, their dream house is costing them $5,100 a year, or about $1,600 more than their apartment.

Their apartment neighbours, Peter and Margaret, also had $5,000 for a down payment but instead of buying a home, invested the money. When John and Phyllis told them the house was costing $1,600 a year more than the apartment, Peter and Margaret decided they could afford $1,600 a year, too, but they added this to their investment fund and continued their apartment life.

Peter and Margaret, at the end of 20 years, found that the $37,000 they placed in their fund had grown to about $90,000 after taxes.

But John and Phyllis were happy, too, for the value of their home had increased to $90,000 from $40,000. And now John and Phyllis had paid for their home, while Peter and Margaret had to continue paying rent.

Or did they? For Peter and Margaret withdrew the money from their fund, bought the $90,000 house next door, and the two couples were back where they had started!

The calculation ignores rising rents, but also ignores the cost of maintaining the home as it grew older, plus rising taxes, utilities and insurance. A sawoff? Maybe, maybe not, but a gamble that must be taken in the buying versus renting decision.

Safety Tips For Push Mowers

Mowing the lawn with efficiency and safety is in your power—if you use your power mower right. Here are some basic safety tips on using a push mower from experts at the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute.

DON'T BE ALL WET—Make sure grass is dry when you mow it.

1. It's essential to read the owner's manual carefully before using the mower.
2. Keep children and pets away from the mower area.
3. Wear sturdy shoes and close-fitting slacks. Never operate the mower in bare feet or sandals.
4. Never adjust or leave the machine without stopping the mower and disconnecting the spark plug.
5. Don't mow wet grass. It can cause you to slip and lose control and blades and discharge chute to clog.
6. Steer the push mower across slopes, never up and down.

PILLAR TALK

You may know a youngster who thinks he can do things better than an adult. He'll love this story.

One of the most visited buildings in Scotland is the ancient Rosslyn Chapel, just south of Edinburgh. In it is one pillar that is much more beautifully carved than the others.

The guide who shows visitors around tells them that this is the "Prentice Pillar." It seems that the master mason in charge of building the chapel had to go to France and left his apprentice to carry on the work.

The apprentice spent much loving care on decorating this particular pillar. When the master mason returned, he realized that his apprentice's work was better than his own.

Jealous, he took a mallet and killed the boy and disposed of the body. Then he claimed the beautiful carved pillar as his own work.

But Teacher's Scotch Information Centre is glad to say that the truth came out, and the apprentice is conceded today as the carver of the pillar.

Swimming is healthy

Whether you swim in a pool, or in a lake, river, pond or creek, swimming is one of the most healthy forms of exercise and relaxation. It's also among the more hazardous, with about 50 Ontarians drowning each year.

No matter what your level of skill as a swimmer is, it pays to look before you leap - into any kind of water - and never to let your guard down once you're afloat. Every summer, too many people leave their natural caution and common sense behind with their landlubber's clothing when they head for the water.

If that water's a lake or river, be sure there are no obstacles in it like rocks or weeds; make certain, too, that the current isn't stronger than you are.

If you're brave enough to consider diving - rather than wading - take a look beforehand to see if the water's deep enough. Severe spinal cord injuries occur every year, caused by plunging into too-shallow areas.

A large proportion of the people who get into trouble in the water each swimming season are children. Kids should not only be taught to swim as young as they're ready to learn...they should also be made fully aware of the dangers, and of the safety measures they can take to minimize them.

Non-swimmers of any age should avoid relying on logs, rafts, inflatable mattresses or toys for flotation. Water, like fire, is a good servant but a bad master.

Since even the most experienced and accomplished swimmers can run into difficulties in the water, confidence is not enough. And over-confidence can be fatal.

It's best to swim in company - never alone; and becoming waterborne in darkness, in stormy weather, or after a heavy meal could be dangerous.

Finally, ask your local Red Cross or St. John Ambulance service about lifesaving techniques. Many aquatic fatalities could be avoided if more people knew about such first-aid methods as mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

For the growing number of boaters in Ontario, forethought and common sense also apply. Don't overload the boat. Always wear a life-jacket, and, if you suffer the ignominious fate of capsizing, hang onto the boat; you'll conserve energy, and be more plainly visible to rescuers.

For nautical folk who fall overboard without meaning to, throw something buoyant they can cling to - an oar, a gas can, a thermos or a plastic cooler. Never leap in after them... that just doubles the danger and may make the boat keel over as well.

Swimming's relaxing, refreshing, inexpensive - and fun.

But don't dampen the pleasure of it by ignoring water safety.

Think before you swim.

Make a list

Most people, at one time or another, after passing through the check-out at the local supermarket, find that, upon returning home, they have been over-charged. In order to correct the situation, it means repackaging all the items and taking them, together with the bill, back to the store.

The increasing frequency of the above situation is probably the result of supermarkets reducing staff and increasing the responsibility of the check-out person to include the weighing and packing of the buys. On busy days, the pressure of work results in mistakes being made.

Our advice is this, before going shopping, make up a list and STICK TO IT. As you put each item in your basket, put it down and keep a running tally. Better still, buy yourself a cheap calculator, excellent ones can be had for around $10, and use it. You may be a few cents out because of the items that have to be weighed, or the addition of sales tax, but you will be pretty close.

If you do not agree with your bill, tell the girl before leaving the check-out. It may be embarrassing and it may irk the customers who are in the line behind you, but it's your money, so make sure you only pay the advertised price. Don't worry about upsetting the check-out person or the other customers. It is better to sort it out there and then rather than to go home and fume and fret for a couple of hours and end up doing nothing.

Part of the fun of camping is the planning

Part of the fun of summer camping is planning the trip. Even for the long-time camper there is always something to add to the check list or some reserach to do on the area someone mentioned last year.

If you are a novice at camping there are many fun things to do to get ready for the trip. There are decisions to make on where you want to go and what you want to see: historical sights, resort area, wilderness experiences or provincial parks with their many points of interest and comfortable campsites. Should there be a large body of water for merical campgrounds with organized activities to keep the children interested or would they prefer to share your interests and go on your hikes? Do you need flush toilets, hot showers and laundry facilities? First decide how you want to spend your camping vacation and then write for Ontario-Canada Camping 1977, Ontario Travel, Queen's Park, Toronto M7A 2E5. It is an excellent directory of over fifteen hundred locations for family camping with explanations of facilities offered.

A number of people worry needlessly about insects and bugs. There are some out there but the discomfort they cause can be controlled. Ask your druggist to recommend lotions for the exposed areas of the body and sprays for your clothing.

Comfortable, substantial shoes or boots (not running shoes or sneakers) will support your feet, and help make a pleasurable vacation. Take along a heavy woollen sweater. Ninety percent of the time the weather will be warm and bright and beautiful but on that one cool night the lack of a sweater can make you very uncomfortable.

The Ontario Safety League advises that the most important safety factor to take along on your family camping trip is an attitude of safety consciousness.

Don't leave pets in cars

The Ontario Humane Society urges motorists not to leave their pets in parked cars during the hot summer months.

"The sun can quickly heat up the interior of a car -- it can be like a furnace," said Don Hepworth, OHS Chief Inspector. "The result for a defenceless animal locked inside may be tragic."

Every summer OHS inspectors and agents remove dozens of animals from locked cars. Criminal charges of cruelty to animals could be laid in such cases, Insp. Hepworth said.

Well-meaning pet-owners may think the problem is solved by leaving the car windows rolled down slightly, but too often this simply won't provide adequate ventilation.

When you go shopping or elsewhere, leave your pet at home. Remember, heat kills.

A few other pointers the League suggests are:

Always wear a lifejacket or personal flotation device when on the water. Boating accidents happen so quickly that a life-jacket or P.F.D. may save your life.

Make sure your tent is always ventilated, even on nights when you may want to shut out cool breezes.

Lock food supplies in the trunk of your car or in a cooler outside your tent with the cooler lid weighed down with rocks. Do not take food into your tent at night; it may attract four-footed predators.

Be meticulous about housekeeping around the campsite. Pick up bottle caps, broken glass, twigs, stones, etc. There is nothing more confining on a camping trip than cut or bruised feet. Keep them happy.

Supervise small children so they do not wander off and become lost. Buy a shrill whistle for each member of the family and each one wear it on a string around the neck. Parents and small children can communicate by whistle if an emergency arises.

Find out where the nearest doctor is located in case of a sudden, unexpected illness. Take along a good first-aid kit for minor problems.

Above all, watch the waterfront when children are playing in or near the water.

The Ontario Safety League wants you to enjoy your camping vacation and to return home safely.

Have you ever bumped into a parked car?

Have you every bumped (maybe ever so slightly) a parked car while you were doing some manoeuvring?

Have you ever cut a corner too close and rolled over the curb?

Have you ever taken a corner too widely and crossed into a lane other than the designated one, thereby cutting off another driver?

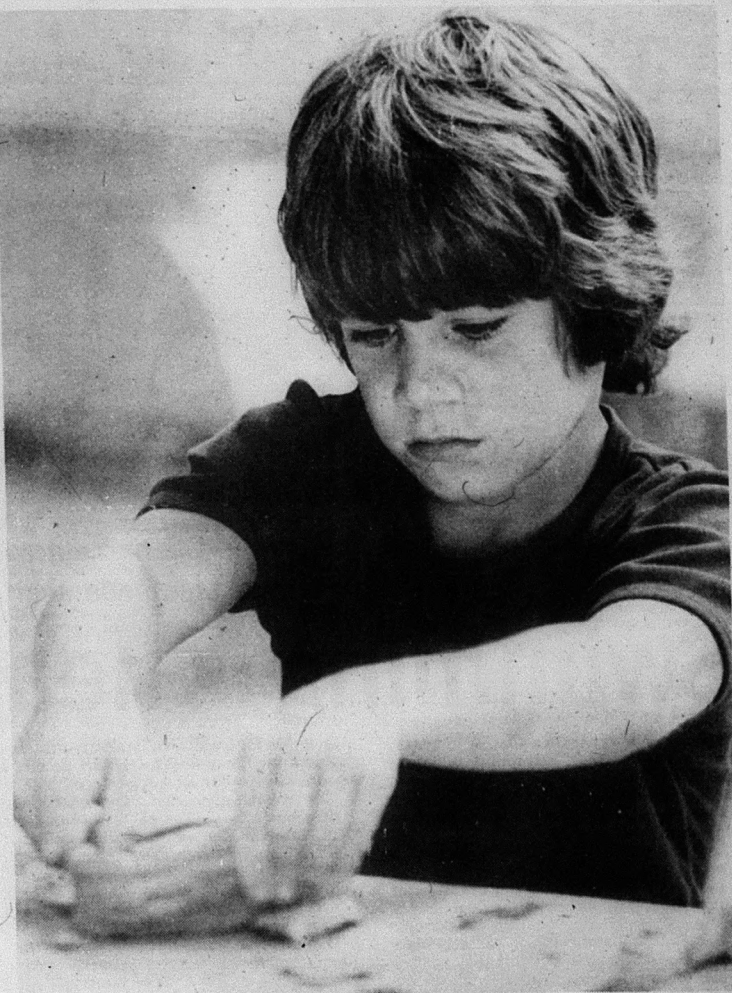

Have you ever come to a stop for a red light straddling the crosswalk?

Have you ever reached the point of no return while passing and wished you had never tried to pass because the oncoming car was much too close for comfort?

These things happen to some drivers and some of them simply shrug, ignoring their misjudgment and go right ahead as if it never happened.

But it did happen!

When a driver ignores the implications of such a mistake, states the Ontario Safety League, he's asking for trouble. A driving misue or miscalculation, such as those simple ones listed here, could at another time and another place cause a serious accident. Make a mental note when you make a driving faux pas never to let it happen again.

Driver charged following crash

A charge of Careless Driving has been laid following a single-vehicle accident in Tudor Township Sunday morning, July 24th.

Charged under Section 83 of the Highway Traffic Act was Kenneth Anderson, 42, of Belleville, after he went off the road at the junction of Highway 62 and the Cleveland Road. Apparently, Mr. Anderson was travelling northbound at about 50 m.p.h. when he reached to pick up his CB radio on the dash. The radio fell and the driver swayed onto the east shoulder of the road, where he lost control of the 1969 Ford he was driving. The car skidded across the road onto the west shoulder where it struck four guideposts and came to rest on the westbound lane facing north-east. Damage to the left rear of the vehicle was estimated at $500. The driver was not injured in the accident, according to investigating officer, Const. G. Rollins, of Madoc.

Lawn bowling club hosts Belleville group

The Madoc Lawn Bowling Club entertained the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club on Thursday, July 14th. There were 24 bowlers participating which was a complete draw, and they played two ten-end games.

Jack Booth received many compliments on the good condition of the greens. They were very keen and had a nice draw.

The Madoc Club had a Ladies rink attend a tournament in Belleville recently, where they received a prize for the high score for two wins.

Manpower Student Centre closes

The Canada Manpower Centre for students located every Wednesday in Centre Hastings Secondary School has completed its final week of operation.

Today marks the completion of its six week stay in Madoc.

Weekly newspaper articles and advertisements, posters displayed in local stores, numerous visits to local businesses and a Cable TV programme on Sun., July 17 have been part of the attempt to inform all Madoc-Marmora-Tweed area residents, both students and potential employers, of the services offered by their local Canada Manpower Centre for students.

In addition to the students placed through the area's several young Canada Works projects, the Madoc sub-office has helped find summer employment for some students in such community jobs as waitressing, babysitting, and farm labouring.

Next week: Student Centre wrapup

Due to the "pilot project" status of the Madoc CMCS, however, the general public response in terms of job vacancies for students registered with the office has been slow.

Although it is a "new" service to those farmers, business persons and homeowners in the community invited to use it, the Madoc CMCS is also a quick and efficient service for those wanting a good job done now!

General lawn maintenance, painting and household cleaning are just a few of the odd jobs homeowners might consider hiring a student to do during these last weeks of summer.

Farmers needing extra help during the upcoming harvesting season might also find a student a welcome addition.

Similarly, shop keepers may wish to interview students now for those part time jobs starting in September or use students temporarily as staff vacations begin.

Jennifer Staveley is shown taking down the sign above her office door at the Canada Manpower Centre for Students in Madoc. Miss Staveley operated the centre from June 22 until today, and found jobs for more than ten are students.

WI meets at Watson home

Hart's-Riggs' Branch of the Women's Institute met at the comfortably air-conditioned home of Mrs. Linda Watson on Wednesday, July 20th.

After the meeting opened with the Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect, President Mrs. Pearl Foley called on program convener Linda Watson to introduce the guest speaker, Delta O'Hara of Delta's Floral Designs. Delta began her demonstration by making a white carnation corsage, which she later presented to Mrs. Lois Devolin, who celebrated both an anniversary and a birthday recently. She then made a sideboard arrangement of dried flowers and a centerpiece arrangement of fresh flowers. The two bouquets were raffled off and were won by Betty LaPalm and Kris Kroner respectively.

Roll call, an exchange of plants or slips, showed 14 present. The minutes of the June trip to Peterborough were read by acting secretary, Carol Paraniuk, in the absence of Lamoine Foley. Mrs. Eleanor Fleming gave the Treasurer's report, which showed over $150 was raised at the Strawberry Social held in June.

Mrs. Mary Trotter announced that the Agricultural Society would like the Institute to prepare and serve a hot supper at the arena on Fair Day, Saturday, September 24th. A poll was taken and the majority ruled that plans would be made to carry it through.

A letter was read from Heather Barnett, Regional Supervisor of Home Economics of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food regarding the fall 4-H Homemaking Club Project, The Cereal Shelf. It was reported that Linda Watson and Barbara Rivers have registered as leader and assistant for this club. The Leader's Workshop is to be held August 29 and 30 at Sacred Heart Hall, Madoc.

The President announced that the Madoc Branch is taking the 1000 Island Boat Cruise from Gananoque on August 4th. Anyone wishing to go is most welcome on a first-come basis. Miss Ada Adams is the one to contact regarding further details.

Mrs. Elsie Franks gave the Canadian Consumer report, touching on such subjects as foreign aid (to which Canada contributes $10 million annually), soap products, portable fans, a study on milk marketing board, and an explanation of the milk subsidy. She advised everyone to read up on these interesting items.

'O Canada' and a refreshing lunch of lemonade, sandwiches and cookies closed the meeting.

They didn't get away

The weather was hot and the fishing was hot too for Eric Armstrong this week.

While fishing with his favourite guide - his father, Bill Armstrong, on Monday night, July 18 he hooked a 40 inch, 19 pound muskie.

On Tuesday night, July 19, they did a repeat performance.

Only this time Eric caught two muskies, one a 37 inch, 15 pound and the other a 35 inch, 14 pound fish.

They were fishing out on the centre bar in Lower Moira Lake.

A tip to muskie enthusiasts, says Bill, "use good equipment, know the bars and criss-cross them at good speed and take your son."

Canadian Pacific pulling out

Jim Keller, local Canadian Pacific Agent, has advised the Madoc Review that on July 30 the Canadian Pacific Agency in

Ettes beat Peterborough

An eleven-run second inning powered the Trent Valley Purina-ettes to a 21-3 win over Peterborough in the first game of the P.W.S.A. playdowns.

Sandra Fleming went the distance allowing only two hits, one, a first-inning homer to Peterborough's pitcher C. Downer. Sandra picked up ten strikeouts, on her way to victory.

In the second inning, the Purina-ettes sent seventeen batters to the plate. Jane Bailey hammered out a grand slam home run in the fourth inning, along with her double, two singles and two walks in the game, that accounted for five runs.

Other hitters in the game were Joan Campbell with three singles and a double. Bonnie Arnold with a triple, double and two singles. Sandra Fleming had a double, two singles and reached first base three times on Peterborough's miscues. Also keeping the bat hot for the Purina-ettes were Sharon Lessard, Vickie Fulcher, Suzanne Jaccett and Rosanne Chapman with a double and a single. Julie Hunter picked up a double to round out the attack.

The second game will be in Madoc on Thursday night, July 28th, at 9 p.m. The Purina-ettes will be playing without Joan Campbell and Sharon Lessard on Thursday night, but hope to wrap the series up and move on the next series against either the Belleville Bombers or Brockville.

Mrs. Freda Little is shown above with the 6 pound, 3 ounce, 21 and a quarter inch large mouth bass she caught on a recent fishing trip in the area. Mrs. Little, who caught the fish in the west end of Moira Lake, is from Windsor, Ontario.

This is Canada Farm Safety Week

This week, July 25 to July 31, has been declared Farm Safety Week by the Canada Safety Council.

"The emphasis during this year's Farm Safety Week will be on protective equipment for farmers and farm workers," says Robert Plunkett, public safety manager for the Council. "Equipment such as eye goggles, respirators, chemical resistant gloves, face shields and ear protectors is available, and should be worn when required."

Roll-over protection is important in the use of tractors. Mr. Plunkett points out half of the accidents in fields involve tractors. In addition, some long-term disabilities can result from tractor operation. Farmers experience a high incidence of hearing difficulties because of the noise from tractors.

"It was found that by the age of 65, the majority of farmers had hearing losses that impaired their normal hearing," say Mottie Feldman, a research scientist with Agriculture Canada's Engineering Research Service in Ottawa.

According to the Canada Noise Control Regulations, the upper noise limit acceptable over an eight hour period is 90 decibels. Tests on tractors carried out by the University of Manitoba show that only 31 per cent of the tractors tested produced less than 90 decibels at high idle whether loaded or not.

"In the past, manufacturers have tried to define the noise sources and modify tractor design to reduce noise levels. However, this approach has proven costly and impractical," Mr. Feldman said.

"Ear protectors are a low cost, immediate form of adequate protection that is available for all farmers regardless of the noise level of their particular tractors."

The major disadvantage of the acoustical ear muffs is that they may be uncomfortable to wear, particularly in hot weather.

With the growing popularity of tractor cabs, a more reasonable solution presents itself. Properly designed tractor cabs not only offer protection for the operator in the event of a roll-over, but can also reduce tractor noise to a safe level.

The Nebraska Tractor Test results show that acoustically designed cabs can produce a safe noise level. The cabs are anti-vibration mounted and treated with noise barriers and sound absorbing materials. Out of 69 cab-equipped tractors tested, 58 were below the 90 decibel level.

Reader recalls blacksmith era in Madoc

Replying to one of the pictures in the popular column "A Touch of History", a Kingston reader gave us some background on one Madoc blacksmith from the 1930's and 40's.

The blacksmith, Ernest Smith, was the father of Keith Smith of Kingston who said that his father came to Madoc from Frankford, Ontario in 1931.

"He (Ernest Smith) was born at Gilmour, Ontario and married Mae Dafee who was also from Gilmour," said Keith Smith in a letter to the Review.

"I can well remember the hard work at the shop my father performed, shoeing horses and making wheels for wagons. In those days the money was scarce but the farmers in the area were wonderful people," he said.

Mr. Smith went on in the letter to explain how the farmers "would exchange meat and potatoes to have the work done."

Blacksmithing was a hard back-breaking job," he said.

In 1946 Ernest Smith closed his shop and went to work for the Corbyville Distilleries.

Ernest Smith, whose brother Clayton still resides in Madoc, had five sons and one daughter: Wilfred who lives at RR1, Madoc; Ronald who lives in Kemptonville, Ontario; Finley and Keith in Kingston; Grant, who is in Peterborough; and Fern (Mrs. Ray Goodchild) who lives in Madoc.

The first heavy water plant at Ontario Hydro's Bruce nuclear power development, near Kincardine, operated at 91 per cent of potential capacity during 1976. That's almost double the Canadian average.

Man charged in accident

Const. Al Borger of the Madoc O.P.P. was called to the scene of a single-vehicle crash on County Road 13 near Highway 37 at 11 p.m. Saturday, July 23rd.

Apparently, Robert Sills, 36, of Tweed, was eastbound with a 1977 Buick owned by Bert Jones Ltd. of Madoc when he ran off the roadway into the south ditch, where the car rolled over. Damages to the left side and top of the vehicle were estimated at $1,500. Mr. Sills was not injured. Const. Borger has charged Sills under Section 83 of the Highway Traffic Act.

Did you know that 5000 Canadians are stricken with breast cancer each year? There is a 75 per cent chance of being cured if the cancer is discovered in time. Self-examination of the breast, once a month, will reveal any irregularity and allow you to consult your physician immediately.

Antique Alley

ANTIQUE - WHAT'S THAT?

Much time and effort has been spent trying to define what is an antique. Thus far no one has come up with a definition that is acceptable to all.

Some very adamantly say that an item must be at least a hundred years old to be a true antique.

Others say that anything made before World War II is now in the antique category.

Both of these arguments have many supporters. However, some reject both of these definitions and insist that "because it belonged to Grandma" it must be an antique.

Age alone does not determine what is antique of its value.

Determination is usually based on age, quality at the time of production, scarcity of the item, and its present condition.

For example, a piece of cheap utility glass made in the nineteenth century for the hotel and restaurant traffic would have far less value than a piece of artistically decorated glass made for general sales in the twentieth century. If a piece is damaged; e.g., a crack in glass or a major part replaced on a piece of furniture, the value drops appreciably.

If we were to accept the "over a hundred years old" definition, there would be few antiques to be had today. Most items in this category are either in museums or private collections.

This definition would also exclude all the beautiful art glass and china made in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century. Much of the lovely Victorian and Eastlake furniture that is in such demand today would simply be classed as "used furniture."

Antique collectors and dealers rejected the "over a hundred years old" definition a long time ago.

To accept the "before World War II" definition without question can also cause problems. True enough this definition covers the ever popular Depression Glass, the simple Mission Oak line of furniture, and the rather outlandish advertising items used during this period. But what about the items made before World War II that are still being made and can be bought in the stores today?

You can see why there is so much confusion in trying to define an antique. The best way for an individual to decide if he wishes to invest in an item is to ask himself a few basic questions: (1) Is it well made? (2) Can I reasonably expect the value to increase in the years ahead? (3) Do I like it? (4) Can I afford it?

If you come up with four yes answers, you can be fairly sure that you are making a good investment in something that will give you years of pleasure.

Remember, just because it belonged to Grandma doesn't necessarily mean it is antique. She might have bought it at the local department store last week!

[Readers are invited to send any questions they may have concerning antiques to this newspaper. The questions will be answered in future columns. Mark your envelope "Antique Alley".]

Pigden's Gallery

Shown above is the last in the series we have been running on the historical calendars put out by Pigden Motor Sales of Madoc. We wish to express our appreciation to the company for allowing us the use of their calendars and the pictures depicted thereon. The above picture appeared on their 1967 and 1970 calendars.

Pigden Motors Sales was established March 1, 1920 by Charles A. Pigden, in the village of Eldorado, Ontario. Charlie was employed by the Grand Trunk Railway in Belleville, Ont. as a fireman. He decided to go into business for himself and in February, 1920, he, his wife, Keitha, and two sons, Gordon and Harold moved to Eldorado.

He rented the rear part of the blacksmith shop, on the main street in Eldorado, then owned by Jack Fitzgerald.

In 1921 a garage was built with living quarters overhead. In that year the gasoline was purchased from Imperial Oil Ltd., Madoc, and was delivered in wooden barrels drawn by horse and wagon. The gasoline was measured out to the customer by gallon measuring cans.

In 1925 the business was expanded by acquiring the agency for Whippet and Willys-Overland cars and trucks, and in 1928 Charlie sold over 75 new cars and trucks.

In 1932 the Willys-Overland Company ceased production in Canada and the next year Douglas Proudfoot of Chrysler Canada Limited visited Charlie in Eldorado and the franchise for Dodge and DeSoto cars and Dodge trucks was taken on by the company.

In 1949 the present building with a floor space of 10,644 feet, was erected in Madoc Village.

Man charged with improper passing

An Oakville, Ontario man has been charged with improper passing following a traffic mishap that sent a Pickering woman to Belleville General Hospital with major injuries Thursday afternoon, July 21st.

Charged was 58-year-old Martin Francis Lyons, who was travelling behind a 1972 Capri driven by Judith G. Dubroy, 20, of Pickering. Mr. Lyons pulled out to pass the Dubroy vehicle, forcing it onto the west shoulder where it subsequently lost control and skidded to the east shoulder. When it hit the edge of the shoulder, it rolled over and came to rest on its roof. Ms. Dubroy was taken by ambulance to Belleville General Hospital with major injuries, but a passenger in her vehicle, Kristine McCann of Eganville, was not injured. Damages to the Capri were estimated at $1,000 by investigating officer Const. G. Rollins of the Madoc O.P.P. The Lyons vehicle, a 1977 Chevrolet, was not damaged. The driver and two passengers in the Lyons vehicle, Margaret Lyons and Nicholas Mah of Toronto, all escaped uninjured.

The accident occurred on Hwy. 37 at the junction of Hastings County Road 8 and the Moira-Stirling Road.

Top canoeists show how it's done

Students in the Campbellford District Summer School's canoeing program were shown just how it should be done during a demonstration Wednesday by four roving experts from Canoe Ontario.

The four, Mark Brown, Grant McCaffrey, Malcolm Macaulay and Scott Smith, spend the summer travelling across the province demonstrating the skills involved in recreational canoeing, white water kayaking and flat water racing. Their audiences usually consist of summer camp students or groups of canoeists sponsored by local recreation departments.

Canoe Ontario is a provincial association established in 1973 to promote the co-ordinated development of all aspects of canoeing and kayaking in Ontario. Committed to meeting the needs of canoeists in the province, Canoe Ontario offers information, leadership, financial assistance and help in many areas of canoeing and kayaking.

The day's instruction was divided into two two-hour sessions, the morning for the summer school students and the evening for members of the general public. Using canoes and kayaks brought with them, the four demonstrated the correct ways to control a boat through paddle strokes, how to turn and stop efficiently and how to use the various craft. Following the class, the canoeing students were given the chance to try out the different canoes for themselves.

Grant McCaffrey of Canoe Ontario gives some of Campbellford's budding canoeists a chance to try out one of the group's kayaks during demonstrations by McCaffrey and three other experts last week. The demonstrations were sponsored by the summer school.

Even an expert can sometimes lose his balance while standing on the gunwales of a canoe.

Canoe Ontario expert Scott Smith shows that a swamped canoe can still be paddled through the water. In the background, Malcolm Macaulay watches his progress.

The four experts demonstrated several different types of canoeing.

Showing the various things that can be done in a canoe, Malcolm Macaulay does a headstand in the middle of the Trent River. Later, he jumped from one end of the canoe to the other.

Standing on the gunwales at one end of the canoe, Macaulay bobs up and down, causing the canoe to slowly move forward.

DOLLAR SENSE

Be a cautious shopper:
you could retire at 50

By Alan E. Woods, CA

The middle income earner who handles his money prudently has a much better chance for early retirement than the high-salaried, high-rolling executive who lives to the limit of his income.

Strangely, it is a lesson that is hard to learn, for we live in a society and an age that encourages spending and consumption, and many people find it difficult to resist wearing the badges of prosperity.

Members of The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario answer your questions in Dollar Sense. Mr. Woods is with the firm of Arthur Andersen & Co., Toronto.

But many people work hard, earn reasonable incomes, and hope that there is some prospect of leaving the work force at the age of 50 or 55, financially secure.

They ask: is there a magic formula, a combination of wise investments and fancy tax shelters that can bring these dreams to realization? No. In this respect at least, the old ways are still the best ways.

And those are: invest safely, resist social pressures to spend, and give up any ideas you have of getting rich quick.

Let's look at these conditions one by one.

Invest safely. Ten years ago, people were making big profits on the stock market and in real estate. Eventually, the stock market reversed and real estate slowed to a walk.

Sophisticated investors are still eking out moderate profits, but what about average investors?

It would be interesting to compare the relative financial position today of the average investor who put his savings into guaranteed investment certificates or tax deferring Registered Retirement Savings Plans with the average performance achieved by those who put equivalent amounts in stocks and real estate.

Resist social pressures to spend. Is it necessary to have a new car just because the neighbour does? Do you really need a house in a better neighbourhood? Is it so important that your washing machine has nine cycles instead of two?

Prudence on a two-hour shopping trip today may buy a month of worry-free retirement 20 years from now.

Forget about getting rich quick. Perhaps the better way to say it is, forget about living rich. Chartered accountants have what seems to be an endless stream of clients making $50,000 or $60,000 a year, but spending every last cent of their after-tax income. They may be wealthy by contemporary standards, but their chances of early retirement are almost nil.

So take a look at your free-spending boss today. And take a look at him 20 years from now when you walk out of the office enroute to the luxury of a work-free future. He'll still be behind his desk!

Three ways of beating the cost of inflation

By Leon Pape, CA

Most financial experts agree that inflation is not going to suddenly disappear, and that price tags on most products will be higher 10 years from now than they are today.

However, there are ways of beating inflation and possibly even benefiting from it. Here are some examples -- in the most important budget areas of shelter, furnishings, food and transportation -- which give an indication of how it can be done.

Members of The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario answer your questions in Dollar Sense. Mr. Pape is with Nadler Gould & Co., Toronto.

How can one actually benefit from inflation? One way is by buying a house or condominium today even though your immediate costs might be greater than renting under existing government rent controls. Why? Because, if you shop diligently and negotiate a 20-year mortgage, your monthly cost for principal and interest will not increase with inflation. At the same time, the value of your home will, in all probability, increase.

Another inflation beater is the purchase of antique or even second-hand furniture -- provided you know something about the identification and value of items which appreciate or at least hold their value, as opposed to furniture of depreciating value.

If you don't already possess this kind of knowledge, acquiring it is merely a matter of time and study. Begin by browsing regularly in reputable second-hand and antique stores. Good starting places are Salvation Army Thrift Stores. Get to know the managers. Make it clear that you are interested only in those items that will at least hold their value and preferably appreciate in value.

A third and perhaps the best inflation counter attack is substitution.

For example, coffee and now tea prices have risen at rates far in excess of inflation trends. Instead of being another willing victim, stop and think: The healthiest, inflation-proof thirst quencher is water. For that matter, doctors plead with us to drink less of everything except water, skim milk and fruit juice -- and even fruit juice appears to be oversold.

Automobile and gas consumption substitutes range from smaller, more efficient cars through motorcycles, bicycles, public transit and walking -- most of which will improve your health.

We have discussed some principals: invest in a home, don't rent; shop with care for quality items likely to appreciate in value; substitute low cost habits where price increases run ahead of general inflation trends.

Obviously not everyone will find all the specific examples I've used desirable or even possible. But you can adapt the ideas to your needs -- and save hundreds if not thousands of dollars every year.

"Family
Food Service"

*It's the time Canadians take to vacation trails and become outdoor adventurers, living in tents and trailers. Meals on the go need not be fancy, but they can be fun by taking along nutritious, ready-to-eat luncheon meats and other sausage products.

*Since open camp fires for cook outs and barbecues are all part of holiday fun, the home economists for Union Carbide offer these safety tips. The fire should be well clear of brush or buildings. Lighter fluid must not be added to a fire after lighting. Loose, inflammable clothing should not be worn when one is cooking with an open fire. The fire should not be left unattended when accessible to children or pets. Barbecue grills should be firmly mounted to prevent tipping. The fire should be completely extinguished after using. Burning charcoal should be soaked with water and may be reused after drying.

*Keep your food budget within limits by taking advantage of the low price tag items. For example, macaroni and wieners prove a real budget pleaser. Prepare packaged macaroni and cheese according to package directions. When the cheese goes into the cooked macaroni, add 1/2 lb. diced wieners to the mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes, or until the wieners are heated through.

*Families camping out should take special care with food. Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold so that spoilage won't be an unwelcome passenger on your trip.

*Julienne strips of luncheon turn an ordinary tossed green salad into a main dish for a fast luncheon fare.

*In hot weather, the best time to use the oven is in the morning. Plan cool evening meal entrees, such as cold cut trays.

*A ringer-dinger breakfast is the thuringer egg bake. Grate 1/2 cup cheddar cheese, mix it together with 1 tsp. of mustard and 1/2 tsp. salt. In another bowl, beat 6 eggs slightly; stir in 1/4 cup milk and the cheese mixture. Arrange 2 cups chopped thuringer (about 3) in a greased 2 quart casserole; pour the egg-cheese mixture over it. Bake at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes, or until eggs are barely set. This makes 4 servings.

*Fried Salami Steaks are family favorites and easy to barbecue. Slice salami 1/2-in. thick. Slash edges in several places to prevent curling. Fry on both sides on griddle until lightly browned.

*Copies of "Sausage Sorcery," a recipe booklet prepared by Union Carbide Canada Limited, may be obtained by writing Family Food Service, P.O. Box 187, Station R, Toronto, Ontario M4G 3Z9.

One foot in the furrow' by Bob Trotter

Letters are appreciated by Bob Trotter, Eldale Rd., Elmira, Ont. N3B 2C7

Travelling by armchair is about as exciting as a peony tea. At best, the reader gets his kicks vicariously. At worst, it is a boring monologue by the writer or the narrator.

Which is the reason that any travelling done by this reporter is rarely included in this column. A few months ago, I used a trip to northern Quebec to vent my feelings about separation, one of the rare exceptions to my rule.

Another exception this week. I had the privilege a few weeks ago of visiting the American Newspaper Publishers Association research institute show in Los Angeles. The flight from Toronto to L.A. again impressed me with the need to retain as much agricultural land as possible in this country for future generations.

We tend to look at the broad Canadian expanse of land as a limitless resource. I'm sure Americans feel much the same. But after the mid-western plains comes mile after mile of parched, desert land. Now and again, a circle of green can be seen, like quarters from the air, where some irrigation is available.

I am aware that much has been done to preserve farmland in Ontario, especially the recent green paper announced by Bill Newman, minister of agriculture and food. It is to be hoped that this paper will give his department some clout when it comes to allowing some of the best agricultural land in Canada to go under the developers' hammers.

Less than six per cent of this huge land mass known as Canada is suitable for agriculture. That's six acres in every hundred. Some of the best land of that six per cent is right here in southern Ontario. It is the best because it is diversified. Many different crops can be grown which is all the more reason some definite curbs are needed.

Land covered by tickay-tacky houses, super highways, power corridors and shopping plazas can never be recovered. Perhaps this has been said ad infinitum, ad nauseum, in this column but it is a fact and must be constantly stressed.

I realize that, as this country grows, housing is needed. People have to live somewhere. New homes must be built. Factories must be built to create jobs and give employment. But why must those houses and those factories be built on prime agricultural land so often? Is it impossible to direct this development to land which is unsuitable for agriculture?

It isn't impossible. Good agricultural land is usually reasonably level; therefore it is easy to service. It is easier to develop, less costly to the developer and, eventually, less costly for the home owner to purchase the lot.

And anyone who has purchased a home in recent years would agree that land costs contribute too much to the exorbitant price of houses today.

But somewhere, sometime, a saw-off is going to have to come about. This province cannot continue to use up agricultural land as though tomorrow may never come. Statistics on how much land has gone out of production are easy to get but it is difficult to figure out whose statistics are correct. The Ontario Federation of Agriculture a few years ago estimated it at 35 acres an hour. Yet, provincial government people have statistics to prove that more land went back into agriculture last year and the year before than was taken out. Who do you believe?

Whatever the facts, Canadians -- Ontarians in particular where the finest of farmland is found -- must come to some conclusions soon and decide where priorities should be placed.

We simply cannot continue to allow the best farm land in Canada to disappear forever.

You learn best by doing - theme

"You learn best by doing," is the theme of a campaign by the Ontario Ministry of Colleges and Universities to promote the advantages of apprenticeship. Advertisements featuring famous apprentices can benefit their businesses as well as Ontario's economy. Another goal of the promotion is to show students and others that apprenticeship can be a worthy alternative to education acquired solely through colleges and universities.

The booklet, Apprenticeship and You,

"A grapefruit is a lemon that had a chance and took advantage of it." Anonymous distributed free by the Ministry, outlines the practice of apprenticeship in Ontario and gives capsule descriptions of three dozen regulated construction, service, and motive power trades as well as listing many additional trades for which voluntary certification is available.

The Ministry's promotion of apprenticeship includes direct mail advertising to potential employers of apprentices, an audio-visual presentation for use in high schools, a quarterly newsletter for guidance counsellors, apprentices and employers, and an exhibit for use at fairs and shows throughout the province by the Ministry's Industrial Training Branch counsellors.

A symposium, "Focus on Apprenticeship" will be sponsored by the Ministry in September at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto. Delegates from industry, labour, education, and government will participate in panel discussions and addresses by international experts on the future of apprenticeship, its economics, and its viability.

Marsh World

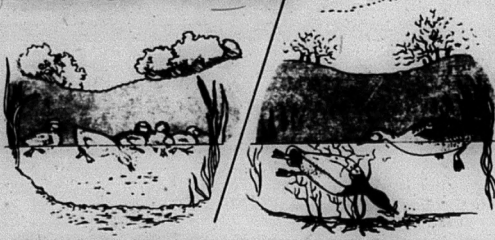

MARSH DELICACIES. — Many of the plants and animals found in marshes, streams or lakes provide a readily available source of emergency food. For example, the legs of the leopard frog (A) though small, are a gourmet's delight. Crayfish (B) turn red like a lobster when boiled, their tails are easily shelled and de-veined, and taste similar to ocean crab. The starchy roots of the bulrush (Scirpus acutus) (C) can be roasted and eaten, and the seeds of the yellow pondlily (Nuphar spp.) (D) can be removed from the pod and eaten raw or popped like popcorn.

GROWING APPETITES — The foods eaten by ducks (and many other creatures) depends largely upon their age and the different nutrient requirements imposed by the changing seasons. For example, animal foods such as snails, insect larvae and freshwater shrimp (Gammarus limnaeus) are high in the protein required by ducklings to undergo rapid growth, and form a major part of their diet. As the ducklings mature and fall approaches, their diet shifts to foods such as grains, seeds of marsh plants and starchy tubers which enable them to store energy in the form of fat to prepare them for their long migratory flight and the short food supplies of the winter season.

GOOD PSYCHOLOGY

Some psychologists say that you'll live longer if you worry less. They've found that people far away from the pressures of modern civilization often live to be very senior citizens.

If you don't have to worry about the bad effects of a sunburn you'll have a better time at outdoor sports. A good tanning or sun-blocking lotion, however, doesn't solve all your problems. Sun and wind can be very drying, so a moisturizer, such as Tan Care After Tanning Lotion by Coppertone, is a good thing to use when you get home. It helps prevent flaking and peeling—and keeps your tan much longer.

According to some experts, it's the people who always worry about being late for appointments who usually arrive early.

New way to apply for SIN

Since last July, people applying for a Social Insurance Number (SIN) have had to show proof of their identity and citizenship status. This new application process has posed some problems. Now the government is making the process easier and launching a major public information program to explain it.

The application procedure will be easier. It's no longer necessary to deal with Ottawa by mail. All district offices of the Unemployment Insurance Commission are geared to help anyone who needs a SIN card. People will now be able to go to a local office and get their "proof" documents verified on the spot. This will lessen the chance that important documents will be lost. It will also help speed up applications.

Ads around the country tell those who need a SIN that they have to show a primary and a secondary document before they can get a card. Primary documents include the originals of a birth certificate or citizenship certificate. Secondary documents are a driver's licence, a school report card or something official with the applicant's name on it.

Those who are not citizens or landed immigrants may still need a SIN for tax or business. They will have to show immigration documents as well as the back-up secondary identification. But they will be getting a special number beginning with the digit "9". An employer must ask anyone with a "9" number who wants to work in Canada for an employment visa.

"We don't think people want to risk losing an important document like an original birth certificate," commented one UIC official. "That's why it's best to deal with a local office in person rather than mailing documents to Ottawa. It'll also get people their SIN cards faster."

The Social Insurance Number has been around since 1964. It was meant to identify people for certain government programs. Today it is also used widely for record-keeping and payrolls.

With this latest emphasis on proof-of-identity, the government hopes to prevent misuses of the SIN and make it a more valid identifier.

The system will now ensure that payments under government social programs go to people who have a right to them. UIC officials say that it's the best way of protecting the public against anyone who may want to misuse a card that has been stolen, lost, or acquired illegally.

DO YOUR BIT TO MAKE YOUR CHILDREN'S FRIENDS FEEL WELCOME IN YOUR HOME. A SIMPLE SNACK—CRACKERS WITH CHEESE, PEANUT BUTTER, JELLY—AND A REFRESHING DRINK WILL DO THE TRICK. KEEP SOME CANS OF LEMON-FLAVORED ICED TEA ON HAND TO OFFER TO YOUNG VISITORS. IT COULDN'T BE EASIER... AND THE KIDS WILL LOVE IT.

Babies usually begin to want to do their own spoon-feeding sometime after six or seven months of age. When it's a problem, why not give the child a spoon to practice with while you feed with another spoon? He or she can best manage a short-handled baby spoon with a large bowl. When baby begins drinking from a cup, you can reduce spilling if the cup contains only a little milk or fruit juice. Gradually increase the amount as the baby becomes better at managing a cup. A sip or two at a time is enough in the beginning. At bedtime, or when the baby is tired, don't insist on the cup. passed away July 25, 1976.

It's only here without you,
We miss you more each day,
For life is not the same to

No one misses you more

And when old times we often recall,
That's when we miss you
most of all.
Sadly missed by Helen and

Students hired by Crowe Valley

This year a total of 25 students have been employed by the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority to work on the Experience '77 summer student employment program. The group consists of one senior supervisor, one technician, one clerk, two foremen, six post-secondary labourers and 14 secondary labourers.

The secondary labourers and one foreman started to work on July 11 for a period of seven weeks. Four of these labourers and the foreman will be working up in the northern section of the Watershed, while the remaining students will be working in other parts of the Watershed.

Projects outlined for the northern crew include work at Thanet Cemetery, Greenbrush Cemetery, the children's play pool at St. Ola dam and the picnic area at Steenburgh Lake Beach.

Projects completed so far by the southern crews have been the Rylstone Institute Park and the Rawdon Community Park at Springbrook. Current projects include the development of a children's park at Cordova Mines, tree and brush removal at Allan Mills, Marmora dam and the Crowe Bridge Conservation Area, plus general maintenance work.

The Experience '77 crews are also involved with making preparations for the official openings next month of The "Gut" Conservation Area and Callaghan's Rapids Conservation Area.

Transportation has received a boost again this year. The Ford Motor Company of Canada has given the use of two vehicles for the summer. However, it has been necessary to rent another vehicle to accommodate the students.

More than 1,000 complaints received

TORONTO - Arthur Maloney, QC, the Ombudsman of Ontario, recently released figures showing that a total of more than 1,000 complaints were received by his office during the spring and summer series of public hearings just ended.

The program saw members of the Ombudsman's staff meet with the public in Toronto, Smiths Falls, Brockville, Cornwall, Atikokan, Fort Frances, Rainy River, Little Current, Espanola, Chatham, Elliot Lake, Tobermory, Owen Sound, Collingwood, St. Catharines, Fort Erie, Bancroft, Barry's Bay, Belleville and North Bay.

At the hearings, a total of 957 interviews was conducted, resulting in the lodging of 1,070 grievances, with a total of 856 new files being opened by the office.

The on-going province-wide program of hearings -- designed to make the services of the Ombudsman available to the public throughout the province -- has finished for the current season, and will resume this October with a full schedule of communities to be visited released later this summer.

More detailed statistics -- including all aspects of the work of the Office of the Ombudsman -- will be published in the Second Report of the office, to be released by Mr. Maloney later this month.

In all, 65 Ontario cities, towns and villages have been visited by the Ombudsman's staff since the start of the public hearings program in November, 1975.

Ontario Fresh Peaches for Christmas Giving

Think about it. The Christmas season is not that far away. Think about it. The Ontario fresh peach season is here.

If you get organized, you can bring the two together. How? Make peach jam now, and in December, you won't have to run around in the cold and snow, fighting crowds, to look for little gifts for dear friends.

Fresh Ontario peaches are expected on the market starting July 19th. Food specialists at the Ontario Food Council, Ministry of Agriculture and Food suggest you start buying baskets of Ontario peaches from that day on - to eat fresh - and to make gifts from your kitchen. The recipe they suggest for this year's gifts is Mash'n Boil peach jam. It's easy to make, the color is beautiful, the flavor is peach fresh. What could please more?

If you do it now, then at Christmas you'll avoid the rush and you'll be proud of the originality of your gift.

Mash'n Boil Peach Jam
15 cups peeled sliced firm
'ripe Ontario peaches
(6 pounds)
9 cups sugar
¼ cup lemon juice

Peel, slice and measure peaches. In a large heavy saucepan, mash peaches, mix with sugar and lemon juice. Bring to boil over medium heat. Raise heat, boil rapidly, stirring often. Remove scum periodically. Continue boiling at high heat for about 25 minutes. (Start to check for the 'jelly' stage: Run a metal spoon through the mixture. When the spoon 'sheets', (remains coated), and the last drops 'run together', the jelly stage has been reached.) This jam consistently takes a total boiling time of 32 minutes to reach the jelly stage.

Pour at once into sterilized jelly glasses, seal with one-eighth inch paraffin and seal. Yield: 11 jelly jars.

OTTAWA and Small Business

Primeval Thoughts

by JIM SMITH

Several million years ago, the earth was covered with strange flora and fauna, some spectacularly large, others microscopically small. All of them are dead now.

Over the eons, the forces of nature converted that prehistoric vegetation into gas and oil. And, today, various governments and shareholders in petroleum companies are converting those same plant remains into cold cash. Isn't science wonderful?

Well, maybe not all that wonderful. The extra dollars to meet higher pump prices announced late in June are coming out of the earnings of those of us who have no allies among the prehistoric deceased. But we could all use a friend in the petroleum business; over the next two years, the wellhead price for domestic crude oil and natural gas will go up by 41 per cent.

For anyone associated with the oil business, this is news to set the heart racing with anticipation. The additional receipts — and we're talking about hundreds of millions of dollars — will be split up amongst governments and oil companies. The producing provinces — primarily Alberta — will take 47.5% of the increase. The federal government will pick up 27.5%. And the oil companies will get the remaining 25%. Who says there's no Santa Claus?

This is what the federal government calls a "petroleum policy". It is a policy to provide considerably more government revenue. It is a policy to dramatically increase profits in the oil industry. But it certainly isn't a policy to ease Canada out of the energy crunch.

The catch is fundamental: it isn't enough to say that higher prices will reduce energy consumption. Some provision must also be made for exploration and development of new oil fields. Research funds must be made available for discovering new sources of energy. The Canadian Federation of Independent Business, for example, has been stressing the desirability of a balanced approach to the energy problem. The Federation emphasizes that more sweeping government policies are needed so that alternate forms of energy — like wind, solar, and improved heat pumps — are developed. Canada needs policies that will encourage smaller businesses with imagination and drive to develop more appropriate energy technology.

None of the additional government revenues have been earmarked for this purpose. Instead, they will flow into general revenues. And the oil companies will not be forced to invest in more exploration and development of oil.

Presumably, Canada cannot avoid being forced into the OPEC oil price spiral, even for domestically-produced oil. But a comprehensive oil policy would include detailed plans for using those additional funds generated by astronomically higher oil prices to insure against future energy shortages.

Sadly, the thinking behind the current oil "policy" is as primitive as the plants that went into our oil and gas.

Psychologists have pointed out that children and grandparents often understand each other better than they do the parents in between. This, they say, is good since young people need to know about the past and how it affected their own families; and older people need to know that their lives mean something to future generations.

Canadians have malnutrition

Recent studies have shown that in spite of our affluence and abundant supply of cheap food, many Canadians suffer from malnutrition.

Because of this, the new edition of the Diet Manual, published by the Ontario Hospital Association and the Ontario Dietetic Association, gives increased prominence to the normal nutritional requirements of healthy individuals.

The Diet Manual is the standard reference text for professional dietitians in hospitals, nursing homes, homes for the aged and other institutions and for physicians. The revisions to the 1977 Manual, which is approved by the Ontario Medical Association, are based on the findings of recent research into the areas of general nutrition and diet therapy.

The Manual includes, for the first time, a chapter on vegetarian diets, because of the increasing interest in such diets. There is also a new chapter on the high fibre diet because of the evidence that has come to light about the dangers of lack of fibre in the diet and the fact that many Canadians do not eat enough high fibre foods.

The traditional bland or milk diet formerly used in the treatment of ulcers and other gastric disorders has disappeared from the new Manual. Recent literature on the subject has shown that this kind of diet does not in fact promote the healing of an ulcer. The emphasis is now on providing good nutritional support during healing process, and so foods have been categorized into "foods allowed" and "foods which may cause distress."

The Diet Manual contains the whole range of therapeutic diets, updated and expanded, to reflect the findings of new research. There are diets used in the treatment of different illnesses such as kidney disease, liver disease, and diabetes. There are also low fat diets, low salt diets.

low residue diets and many more. Also included are chapters on the nutritional support of cancer patients and those with drug addiction.

Throughout the new edition of the Manual, the dietitians emphasize that each patient has different nutritional needs and that the dietitian, as an integral part of the treatment team, must adjust the diets to meet the specific needs of each patient.

More bikes on road than ever

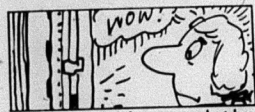

There are more bikes on the road now than ever before. Young and old alike have taken the sport to heart. Weather does not even stop the bicycle crowd.

Unfortunately with more bicycles on the road, there are more accidents involving cyclists. Many can be avoided if drivers, riders, and buyers think safety.

What can be done? The Federal Government is working on standards with the Canadian Standards Association to protect people from design problems that could lead to injuries in bike-riding.

Buying a bike may appear easy but it isn't. There is a lot to consider if you think safety.

1. Before you buy
 - Don't consider a bike too large for the rider.
 - Make sure that the rider can use the brakes safely.
 - Avoid any special attachments that can make dismounting in a hurry difficult, such as high backrests, long rear-shift handles and extra wide and long handle bars.
 - Make sure the bike has a chain-guard.
 - Make sure there is good lighting equipment for night riding.
 2. After you bought the bicycle, check it regularly to see if
 - the brakes are adjusted,
 - tires are properly inflated,
 - all screws are tightened,
 - the chain-guard is effective,
 - lights work,
 - no spokes are missing or loose.
- Even regular wear and tear can lead to equipment failure and endanger the rider. Don't change or exchange bicycle parts; it can make the bike unsafe.
